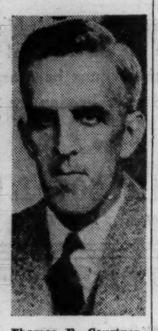
SURVEY SHOWS ILLINOIS WASTES RELIEF MILLIONS

Blame Incompetence and Politics.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Millions of the dollars for relief that are being taxed out of the pockets of Illinois citizens are being wasted. Hundreds of families who are ineligible are receiving relief. And because of this men, women, and children who really need help are not getting it.



Thomas E. Courtney.

Many reports of bad relief administration in downstate areas have reached Chicago during the last year. Thomas E. Courtney, a member of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, charged nearly a year ago that relief is a racket costing Illinois citizens millions of dollars a year.

These reports have been substantiated in a large measure by relief investigations conducted in downstate areas by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Wide Area Toured.

A Tribune reporter has toured downstate to investigate the reports of wasteful relief. The tour extended from the Indiana line on the east to Quincy on the Mississippi river. It began 100 miles south of Chicago and ended in Cairo, the southern tip of the state.

Relief records and samples of relief commodities were inspected. Township relief administrators defended themselves or told what they knew about conditions in their areas. Persons who were in the best position to know what was going on concerning relief in their locality were interviewed.

These conclusions were drawn:

1 Incompetence plays the leading rôle in the maladministration of relief.

2 Politics and friendship play a large part in downstate relief distribution. Most of the relief administrators are running for reëlection on April 4.

3 The IERC has a fine field staf. It is too small, however, to exercise tight control of relief spending.

4 Bad relief administration is breaking the spirit of many who really are in need.

Mismanagement Is Charged.

Many examples of bad relief administration were found and will be described in detail. There are 1,455 relief administration units in the state. Expert opinion is that at least half of them are mismanaged.

Chicago and 17 counties with a commission form of government make up 18 of the administration units. The rest are townships. Each township has an elected supervisor, who, by state law, is the overseer of the poor. In the commission counties the three elected county commissioners are jointly responsible for relief administration and spending. [Chicago's administration will be disregarded for the time being.]

The IERC has only a limited control over these 1,455 units. It hands out the state's $3,800,000 contribution toward the cost of relief each month. The part the commission plays in relief administration will be told in more detail in subsequent stories on relief administration.

Some Examples of Relief.

The local units provide the examples of how not to operate a relief administration.

Two townships in Pike county, which abuts the Mississippi river in the central part of the state, provided examples of what is happening in some of the smaller townships.

The question of how much relief to give a family often is a difficult one. One Pike county supervisor settled it by deciding that each family, whether composed of two or a dozen persons, should receive $5 a month. That system saved him a lot of trouble.

In a neighboring township the supervisor's brother had a WPA job. The brother earned $60 a month and had a family of six. The supervisor gave him $20 a month to supplement his WPA wages. The cost of living in rural Pike county is not particularly high.

A family of twelve persons lived

Tosses Infant to Safety, but Can't Save Self

A gay party of four young women strolled along Ashland avenue last night. They were on their way to take a street car to the loop. A few feet in front of the others was Miss Helen Oleczewski, 18 years old. In her arms nestled Patricia Szymonik, 15 months old.

In front of 911 North Ashland avenue Helen turned and called: "Come on. Let's cross here. We'll get the car on the other side."

She stepped from the curb and started across. The others—Patricia's mother, Mrs. Frances Szymonik, the baby's aunt, Miss Rose Szymonik, and Miss Ann Wachawik— followed some ten feet behind.

Tosses Baby Over Shoulder.

As Helen reached the middle of the street she suddenly saw an automobile almost upon her.

She made no outcry. But in a split second she tossed the infant over her shoulder.

The three women sprang forward with arms outstretched. They were a second too late. Little Patricia landed in the street.

Helen was struck by the automobile and dragged for twenty feet. When the car stopped she was taken from beneath the wheels. She was dead.

Infant Only Slightly Hurt.

Little Patricia, however, was only slightly injured. Her clothing had absorbed the shock of the fall and she suffered only slight scratches.

The child gurgled happily as her mother kissed her repeatedly. Police came soon and took the body of the young woman to nearby undertaking rooms.

SWALLOWS FLY BACK TO MISSION FOR 162D YEAR

San Juan Capistrano, Cal., March 19.—(AP)—A floc kof swallows startled the sisters of the mission at early mass today as the birds fulfilled the 162d annual so-called "miracle of the return of St. Joseph's day."

Thousands of persons flocked to the crumbling old mission to witness the annual event, as the Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson held special services.

In the next few hours after the first flock spiraled out of a leaden sky several other flocks arrived to occupy the nests at the mission which they have occupied for more than a century and a half.

FLOOR CRASHES WHILE MURPHY READS; THEN FIRE DESTROYS HOME

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Daniel Murphy's chuckling over the Sunday comics ended suddenly today when the floor gave way and he found himself in the basement, still sitting in his chair. Then he noticed the house was on fire. His and four other two story frame dwellings were destroyed by the blaze.

AN UNIDENTIFIED HERO RESCUES 2 BOYS IN LAGOON

An unidentified hero saved two boys from drowning yesterday in the Jackson park lagoon near the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry.

The boys, Paul Creamer Jr., 10 years old, 6659 Ingleside avenue, and Theodore Lindstrom, also 10, of 818 East Marquette road, had been at the museum. As they left, Theodore's hat was blown into the lagoon.

A thin layer of ice covered the water. Theodore attempted to walk upon it after his hat. He fell through. Paul went to his aid and also fell in. Both were struggling in the water when the rescuer, who was passing in an automobile, saw them. He pushed a plank to them and crawled out and lifted them from the water. Then he drove them to their homes. Mrs. Creamer last night said she would like to learn his name to thank him.

DEPUTY IS LOST WITH PRISONER IN MINE DEPTHS

Coalburg, Ala., March 19.—(AP)—A deputy sherif and his prisoner were found 3,000 feet in the earth today after they had wandered in an abandoned coal mine for eighteen hours.

Deputy Sherif Jim McAdory said he arrested Cecil Morgan at an illicit still a quarter mile underground yesterday. He and Morgan became separated from another officer and were unable to find their way out.

The other officer gave the alarm and a party of nearly 100 men started the search which ended when the two men were found sitting on a mud bank.

Morgan was not shackled, but made no effort to escape. "I was in as bad a hole as the deputy was," said the prisoner.

"I wanted mighty bad to see some one, not run away from them."

Albert Finds His Strategy Was Faulty

As Albert Leroy Stevenson headed homeward early Saturday evening he pondered sadly on the reception that would be waiting him. He was too late for dinner for even the most tolerant of wives. His spirits were lower than the setting sun.

Albert stopped to retrieve a family heirloom, a revolver he had lent to a friend living on North Clark street. The gun had belonged to his father, A. L. Stevenson, who was principal of the Eugene Field school when he died in 1926.

Ah! A Token of Peace!

His troubled eyes saw a gay print dress, in just the shade of blue his wife liked. He stepped in to buy it as a peace offering.

"That's $3.95," said the clerk, Mrs. Virginia Swenson. Stevenson emptied his pockets. He had $3.20. But wait! He might be able to leave the revolver as security for the other 75 cents. He took the gun from his pocket and laid it on the counter. Mrs. Swenson was speechless with terror.

"Not enough, eh?" asked Stevenson. And he laid a box of cartridges alongside the gun. Mrs. Swenson ran to the back of the shop, scribbled "man with gun" on a piece of paper, and gave it to the shop owner. Then she collapsed in a chair.

A Customer Gets Service.

The owner ran out and hailed Policeman Verbal Codling. Stevenson, bored with waiting for the clerk to return, had picked up his gun and bullets and was starting home when the policeman caught him.

That's the story as Stevenson, a La Salle street brokerage employé, told it yesterday to Lieut. Harry Penzin after spending the night in the Rogers Park station. Stevenson, charged with carrying concealed weapons, will be arraigned tomorrow.

After all his trouble Albert learned he wouldn't have needed a peace offering. His wife wasn't angry. He wasn't in the "doghouse." To prove it she bailed him out of the jailhouse.

AGREES TO COMPROMISE TRADE TREATY AS IT MOVES 500,000 TROOPS TO BORDER

Hopes Allies Will Stop It Becoming 'German Colony.'

BUCHAREST, March 19.—(AP)—Rumania tonight looked to a compromise trade agreement with Germany while at least 500,000 men, called from a dozen classes of the Rumanian army, guarded the frontiers of the kingdom with its oil and wheat fields.

A government spokesman said Rumania recognizes she must give a major share of her trade to Germany and wishes to do so.

At the same time, it was made clear, she looks to the west where the British cabinet was reported to be considering the plight of the Balkans, hoping to be saved from economic dependence which would give her somewhat the status of a German colony.

Deny Receiving Ultimatum.

High official quarters emphasized that Rumania had not received an ultimatum growing out of the trade negotiations.

At the same time it was made known she had rejected Germany's last proposal and was awaiting renewal of negotiations today.

It was said, however, that Rumania had turned down a German suggestion that she dispense with an industrial production and exchange virtually all her agricultural and mineral products with Germany for manufactured goods.

[A Rumanian legation spokesman in London said yesterday that Germany sought a virtual monopoly of Rumania's commerce in exchange for Nazi assurances of Rumanian territorial integrity.]

Meanwhile, Rumania did not intend to be surprised, and manned her borders with strong forces.

[France, too, was reported to have called to the colors 125,000 special fortress troops.]

There was no general mobilization nor were any of the yearly classes called in full.

Equal to Any Surprises.

The standing army of 200,000 men provided the backbone of defense, but informed quarters said it had been reinforced by call of an even larger number to the colors from the reserves.

Reserve engineers and artillerymen were called from all classes and authorities said enough soldiers were at their posts to prevent a surprise from any quarter.

The population was calm, however, and there was general belief that there would be no attack.

Heavy strength, nevertheless, was mobilized along the southern border of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia] former autonomous province of erased Czecho-Slovakia, which has been annexed by Hungary. Rumanians called it their "new frontier," involving new defense problems.

Must Reckon with Hungary.

Before Czecho-Slovakia was dissolved Rumania had an ally on that border and because of mutual nonaggression treaties defenses there were not developed.

Now in that vulnerable region, Rumania must reckon with Hungary which has extensive territorial claims against Bucharest.

SENATORS REBEL AT MOVE TO PUT U. S. IN WAR PERIL

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—While the Roosevelt administration today pressed forward with its moral and economic warfare on Dictator Hitler, widespread opposition flared in congress against policies likely to involve the United States in a European war.

Senator Pittman.

The next action of the administration will be to send a note to the German government refusing to accept as legal the absorption of Czecho-Slovakia into the German nation and denouncing the act in the terms of Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles' phrase of "wanton lawlessness." Information from the state department is that drafting of the note will be started tomorrow.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], dean of the senate and ranking minority member of the senate committee on foreign relations, today sounded the keynote of opposition to the bill Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the committee, will introduce in the senate tomorrow to revise the neutrality act.

"Cash and Carry" Proposal.

Senator Pittman proposes to end the embargoes on export of arms and other war materials to belligerents and to make all commodities, including munitions and implements of war, available to warring nations on a "cash and carry" basis.

Inasmuch as this arrangement would make American arms and other commodities accessible only to belligerents controling the seas the Pittman plan would implement the Roosevelt policy of furnishing war munitions to the paramount sea powers, Great Britain and France, if they should go to war with the European dictatorships.

Senator Borah took issue directly with the proposal to abandon the policy of the existing neutrality legislation to withdraw America from the business of supplying arms to belligerents.

Opposes Sales During War.

"The fact is," said Senator Borah, "that what we call neutrality legislation is not neutrality legislation. It might better be called peace legislation. It abandons some of the fundamental principles of neutrality as they have grown up through centuries of experience.

"If we are going to take up again neutrality legislation along the same lines then I have reached the point where I would like to vote for a bill which would prohibit the sale directly or indirectly of all instruments of war to any and all nations engaged in armed conflict.

"As soon as a proclamation of war is issued I would shut off absolutely the supply of instruments of war. The fact that the nations, or any of them, might have ships and the money to come and get arms and carry them away should not be permitted to form an exception. We should say to all engaged in armed conflict that we will furnish no loans and no instruments of war, that we will not contribute to mass murder.

Opposes Increase of Power.

"The governments of the world have extorted from their overburdened peoples in the last year 15 billion dollars for armaments. We can, in view of that awful situation, at least afford to refuse all help after war is actually in progress. We should lodge discretion nowhere on that particular matter. In endeavoring to be neutral we should so far as possible endeavor to be humane."

Senator Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.], another minority member of the foreign relations committee, said that while he would not oppose supply of arms to belligerents on a cash and carry basis he would not vote for any modification of the neutrality law that would increase the discretion of the executive.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] and Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] are preparing to fight the modification of the neutrality act proposed by Senator Pittman.

HUNGARIANS EXPELLED

BEREGSZASZ, Hungary, March 19.—(AP)—Hundreds of Hungarian families, expelled from Rumania, crossed the frontier into their homeland today.

Families who arrived in Hungary by six frontier posts along the Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenian] border said they had been dispossessed of their farms before their expulsion.

Refugees, carrying but few belongings, were taken by Hungarian soldiers into the interior in requisitioned farm wagons.

They told Hungarian officers that Rumanian officials had declared:

Meanwhile the concentration of Hungarian troops in Carpatho-Ukraine, occupied by Hungary at the breakup of Czecho-Slovakia, continued.

Officers said they understood all men up to the age of 50 were being called to the colors.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Maps on back page.)

BERLIN, March 19.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler returned to his capital tonight as a conqueror following his tour of the new Nazi protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia. Guns roared in salute, fireworks shot into the sky, and church bells pealed. Amid sleet and snow Berlin's population shouted its loyalty to Der Fuehrer and creator of "the greater German empire."

The ovation was a consolation to Hitler. His friends disclosed he has been sorely upset by the British and French protests against Germany's absorption of Bohemia and Moravia, and by Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in Birmingham, England, last Friday.

[The British prime minister in that speech assailed Hitler as a breaker of promises and warned him that Britain would fight if he continued to seek domination of Europe by force.]

Accepts Tribute from Balcony.

Hitler appeared on the balcony of the chancellery a few times to accept the tribute of his subjects. Then the wildly cheering throngs were ordered to go home because "the Fuehrer has vital conferences ahead of him." Hitler must decide within the next 48 hours what he intends to do about the continued fighting in Slovakia, Carpatho-Ukraine, and Ruthenia.

A threatening tone has been adopted by the Nazis who were instructed by Hitler to turn their oratory against England and France and the rest of the world.

"We should not worry about the past of Czecho-Slovakia, but look to the future and especially the forthcoming Italian demands," the Nazis said, referring to Premier Mussolini's claims for a share of France's Mediterranean empire.

Warning to London.

In an editorial in the official Voelkischer Beobachter, which Nazis said was inspired indirectly by Hitler, the London government was warned that Germany will drop its efforts to come to an understanding with Great Britain if it continues to oppose the "natural development of Germany."

The editorial threatened to denounce the naval agreement which restricts Germany's ship building program. It listed the British possessions in the Mediterranean which Italy covets and charged they were seized by brute force. The Voelkischer Beobachter thereupon boasted of the "peaceful and bloodless incorporation of the autonomous Czech state into the German state."

The Germans are making great efforts to convince the world that Dr. Emil Hacha, the last president of Czecho-Slovakia, signed a plea for German "protection." It has become known that Hacha and the Czech delegation were given to understand that Hitler wanted only a token occupation by police forces to "protect the German population in Czechland." The Czechs said that Hacha, who suffered a breakdown during his conference with Hitler in Berlin, was stupefied when, upon his return to Prague, he found the city occupied by German troops.

Report Nazis Fired Upon.

Although the Germans speak of the bloodless reorganization of central Europe, official circles in Vienna admitted that German vigilantes were fired upon by unknown persons east of Bratislava, capital of Slovakia. They said an investigation disclosed the shots probably were fired by irresponsible persons from Hungarian soil.

When Hitler arrived at the Goerlitzer station in Berlin at 7:30 p. m. his entire cabinet and all leaders of the Nazi party were assembled to greet him. As the elaborate "state train" pulled into the capital, Hitler Youths blew their trumpets and rolled their drums to "extend the first greeting to the Fuehrer in the name of German youths."

The first diplomat to greet the Fuehrer was Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador. The latter was accompanied to the station by Bernardo Attolico, the Italian ambassador, and the Hungarian military attaché. The Nazi radio announcer stressed the importance of these friends of Germany. He also spoke of

ALLMAN TO KEEP HIS POLICE JOB IF KELLY WINS RACE

Commissioner's Offer to Retire Is Turned Down.

BY PARKE BROWN.

If Mayor Kelly is reëlected April 4, Commissioner James P. Allman will continue as head of the Chicago police department.

This was established by an inquiry into a recurrence of the rumor that Allman, who has served in his present post longer than any other chief of police in the history of the city, was about to retire. The variation in the present report was that he would resign immediately after the election in order to permit Mayor Kelly to name a new man for the ensuing four years.

Offer to Quit Refused.

Inquiry disclosed that several weeks ago Mayor Kelly was telling Allman of his hopes for the department in the next few years. Allman surprised him by suggesting that perhaps the time had come for him to retire. The mayor objected emphatically, saying that Allman's continuance in office was essential to his plans. Thereupon Allman dropped the subject.

This disclosure was given added interest by a release issued during the day by the All-Chicago committee, which is campaigning for Mayor Kelly.

"All Chicagoans," the statement said, "remember the lawlessness that blighted our city a few years ago. We recall how Chicago was taunted as the nation's crime capital, how millions of dollars in trade were lost because people feared to come here to visit and to do business.

Decrease in Crime Described.

"There had been 344 murders in 1932. There had been 22,891 burglaries and 11,288 robberies. Automobile thefts numbered 150 a day. Gangsters and racketeers were active in the fields of decent business and labor.

"But let us see what has happened. The number of homicides last year was 54 per cent less than in 1933. There were nearly 7,000 fewer burglaries, nearly 5,000 fewer robberies. Automobile thefts had been slashed to an average of eight a day instead of 150.

"Obviously that record was not achieved by accident. It was achieved because Mayor Kelly realized that the only way to rout crime was to have an adequately manned, properly equipped, and ably directed police department and to keep politics out of that department."

JUDGE ASSAILED FOR GARY PRESS FREEDOM THREAT

The action of William T. Fletcher, Democratic city judge of Gary, in issuing warants against three newspaper executives on contempt of court charges, yesterday was assailed by Attorney Floyd Draper, who is representing the defendants. Draper also is city attorney of Gary under Mayor E. L. Schaible.

"Judge Fletcher had no basis for issuing those warants," said Attorney Draper. "These men were no more guilty of contempt of court than I. We'll fight this case through all the high courts whether a $5 or a $500 fine is involved. This involves the freedom of the press."

The defendants are J. Ralph Snyder, publisher of the Gary Post-Tribune, and H. B. Snyder and Myron J. Harris, editors of the newspaper. Judge Fletcher cited them for contempt last Thursday after editorials and stories in the newspapers criticized him for wholesale dismissal of gambling cases.

THREE CASHIERS PICK TELEGRAPH OFFICE BANDIT

Three women cashiers in west side telegraph offices pointed out Richard Brown at the detective bureau showup yesterday as the bandit who had robbed them. Brown, 35 years old, was captured Saturday when he attempted to hold up Mrs. Anna Gleason in a telegraph office at 3113 Roosevelt road.

Detective Frank McDermott, who was stationed in a rear room because of recent telegraph office robberies, ordered Brown to surrender. Instead Brown fired but missed. He fled and was caught by the detective.

Brown said he lived at 3319 Washington boulevard. He is married and formerly was employed by the telegraph company. He confessed four other holdups.

WOMAN BURNED LIGHTING FIRE.

Mrs. Josephine Cila, 26 years old, was severely burned yesterday when her clothing caught fire while she was trying to light a wood stove with fuel oil in her home at 2059 West Harrison street.

OPEN QUIZ TODAY INTO HOUSING PROJECT DELAY

Delay in constructing the South Park Gardens housing project will be investigated today by a special committee of the Illinois house of representatives. Witnesses will be questioned before the committee in the Chicago Housing authority office, 208 South La Salle street.

The federal government planned the project. Forty acres of buildings, mostly apartments, were torn down between 37th and 39th streets, South Park way, and Cottage Grove avenue. More than 3,000 persons lost their homes and the housing shortage in the neighborhood became more acute.

Last June the housing officials induced the legislature to waive local taxes on the property, promising to start construction last September. Now, with no taxes being paid, the land still lies idle. Representative Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago], committee chairman, said that a few shovelsful of earth are turned before each election and that the project then becomes dormant once more.

FIVE TOY PISTOL BANDITS ACCUSED OF 17 ROBBERIES

Maxwell street police said yesterday that they had established charges of seventeen robberies and two burglaries against five young men rounded up Saturday night by Lieut. Louis Capparelli. The robberies included five elevated station holdups. Toy pistols were used in most of the crimes.

Those in custody are Sam Geati, 24 years old, 815 South Carpenter street; John Miceli, 17, of 617 South Aberdeen street; Philip Marrera, 17, of 852 Lytle street; Patsy Sansonetti, 23, of 735 South Kedzie avenue, and Frank Passarelli, 18, of 830 Miller street. Also held as a suspected receiver of stolen goods is Patsy Russo, 29, of 725 South May street.

Police records showed that Russo once was put on two years' probation for burglary; Geati was paroled in 1936 after serving two years in Joliet and Pontiac prisons for auto theft; in 1934 Sansonetti was sentenced to two years in a federal reformatory on a charge of hijacking.

Chile to Call 30,000 Men for Army Service in 1939

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 19.—Approximately 30,000 men will be called for military service this year, according to a decree recently signed by President Pedro Aguirre Cerda. Twenty thousand would serve as militarized workers in reconstruction work in the provinces hit by the January earthquake.

GREEN TO ANSWER OWN QUESTIONS IF KELLY DOESN'T

Demands Reply Before Radio Talk Tonight.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for mayor, will carry his campaign fight directly to Mayor Kelly tonight. Green has asked Kelly four questions about his administration. Kelly has not answered them.

"Unless Kelly answers immediately," Green said yesterday, "I will answer the questions myself over radio station WMAQ at 9:30 tonight."

The questions are:

"When will you force the resignation of James B. McCahey as president of the board of education, and of William H. Johnson as superintendent of schools?

Asks About Tax Bill Delay.

"Why is the issuance of tax bills being delayed?

"Why did your machine spend $2,500,000 to nominate you?

"Where did your machine get the $2,500,000?"

Although Kelly supporters said the questions are of the double-edged "When did you stop beating your wife?" type, Green asserted that the mayor's silence must be construed as evasion.

Thirteen Green rallies will be addressed tonight by other speakers. Among them will be Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator in 1938, and C. Wayland Brooks, G. O. P. candidate for governor in 1936.

Raps Business Destruction.

"Taxes are destroying Chicago," Green said in speeches last night. "Business and industry are being driven out of the city by Kelly-Nash levies. This takes away the jobs of men and women who have to stay and pay."

Green's headquarters yesterday pointed out as a typical example of Democratic support the 8th ward Courtney organization. With quarters at 816 East 79th street, this group is supporting Green for mayor and Roy E. Olin, a Republican, for alderman. About half of the precinct captains who had been lined up for State's Attorney Courtney refused to switch to Mayor Kelly after Feb. 28.

Jacob M. Loeb, lifelong Democrat and former president of the Chicago school board, indorsed Green for mayor last night. Loeb said "the Kelly machine is a deadly octopus."

Killer Named in South Side Shooting Evades Police Hunt

Police yesterday continued their search for Carl Falcone, a garment worker, who was named by a coroner's jury as the slayer of Robert W. Hall of 1534 East 73d place. Hall, a heating engineer, was shot and fatally wounded Friday evening in the doorway of his home. Witnesses said Falcone quarreled with Hall over a heating plant installed in the former's home at 1742 North avenue.

SPEAKER TO NAME STEERING GROUP IN SPENDING WAR

G. O. P. to Consolidate Its Economy Drive.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

A steering committee to consolidate Republican efforts toward economy in state government probably will be appointed tomorrow in Springfield by Speaker Hugh W. Cross of the house of representatives.

Another means of cutting out extravagance may be found in the budgetary commission, which will meet this afternoon in the statehouse. Representative Hugh Green of Jacksonville, Republican chairman of the house appropriations committee, disclosed yesterday that he will have the commission examine appropriation bills.

Lauds Stelle on Economy.

Although there are four Democrats to three Republicans on the commission, Green said he believes this body will sift waste from departmental requests for funds. The commission consists of Acting Governor John Stelle, Senators Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield], W. E. C. Clifford [D., Champaign], Francis J. Loughran [D., Chicago], and Representatives Green, Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], and James P. Boyle [D., Chicago].

"It is noteworthy that the bill to appropriate expense funds for Acting Governor Stelle's office shows a 15 per cent reduction," Green said. "The amount requested is $24,600, compared with $29,000 for the preceding two year period."

Expect Chicago School Action.

Other legislative matters on which action is expected this week are:

The house is expected to advance the Chicago school pegged levy bill to provide funds for 1939, 1940, and 1941. At the request of taxpayers' groups the amount requested was reduced in the senate last week from $50,275,000 to $48,000,000 annually.

Opponents of bills providing that Illinois cities may vote to establish the city manager form of government will be heard by the house municipalities committee tomorrow. Committee members have agreed to release the bill for action on the floor of the house.

Three bills to end separate maintenance after two years and permit a divorce for either husband or wife on the showing of separation will have a hearing before the senate judiciary committee tomorrow night.

CUSTOMER GETS GEM OF A LESSON IN CIVIC AFFAIRS

"Why, I'm secretary to the deputy mayor of Chicago!" said an indignant customer in a credit jewelry store at 185 North State street. He wanted a $90 diamond ring and the question of proper identification arose. The clerk couldn't recall that Mayor Kelly had a deputy. He called the detective bureau. Detectives arrived. The clerk rang up "No Sale" on the register. That was Saturday night.

Yesterday the bogus secretary was booked for disorderly conduct. He said he is Paul H. Wehland, 839 Diversey parkway. He came here recently from New Jersey, where, it seems, they have deputy mayors.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, March 19.—(AP)—Pan-American solidarity was stressed by United States and Dominican officials today at a round of formal ceremonies, including the laying of wreaths on a coffin reputedly containing bones of Christopher Columbus in the oldest cathedral of the new world. I.] were given keys to the city at a banquet in the city hall, then visited the site of a Columbus memorial lighthouse to be erected by 21 American nations.

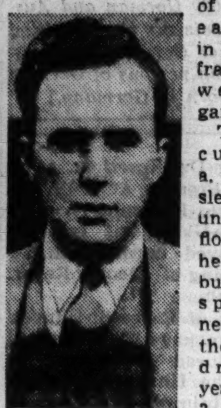
3 CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH; FATHER SAVES 2 OTHERS

Injured Parents Each Think Other Rescued Twins.

Roaring flames fanned by a high wind brought death to three children of James Burry early yesterday in their tiny frame cottage west of Waukegan.



James Burry.

The tragedy occurred at 7:30 a. m. Burry was sleeping in the unfinished second floor of the home he himself was building in his spare time. In nearby beds were the older children, Ruth, 2 years old; George, 3, and Joyce, 9. Burry's wife, Lydia, 32, had gone down to the first floor to see how the twins were sleeping in their crib. The babies were David and Donald, 8 months old.

Exploding Lamp Burns Mother.

Mrs. Burry said she doused a piece of cardboard with fluid from a lamp, then lighted it, intending to start a quick fire in a coal stove. By a mistake, the lamp contained gasoline instead of kerosene.

The flame ignited the lamp. Mrs. Burry started toward the front door, carrying the burning lamp. It exploded, burning her hands, and showered the blazing fluid over the cardboard composition walls.

Her screams aroused Burry who ran part of the way down stairs. Then thinking his wife would be able to reach the twins asleep on the lower floor, Burry raced back upstairs to save the other children.

Twins Perish in Crib.

Mrs. Burry, believing her husband would save the twins, plunged through a window when she found flames had cut off her return to the front room in which they were sleeping.

On the second floor Burry flung a window open. He pushed the two older children onto the scaffolding outside and followed.

He dropped Joyce to the ground. His brother-in-law, Arthur Johnson, who occupied a small one room house in the rear, appeared. Burry dropped George into Johnson's arms.

Then he turned back toward the window. A burst of fire halted him. Burned badly and overcome by smoke, Burry fainted and slid to the ground.

The fire spread to the Johnson house. Two women and three children were forced into the cold in their nightclothes.

Gold Sarcophagus Holds Coffin of Silver.

CAIRO, March 19.—(AP)—Prof. Pierre Montet of Strasbourg university today announced the discovery of the tomb of Pharaoh Psou Sen Nef, described as the last king of the last dynasty, who ruled Egypt about 950 B. C.

Arrow indicates location of newly found tomb.

A sarcophagus of pure gold, with beautiful designs and a head in the shape of a falcon, representing the god Horus, was found in the burial chamber.

Inside the sarcophagus was a coffin of pure silver, also finely worked, within which it is believed a mummy rests.

Father-in-Law of Solomon.

The Egyptian antiquities department said King Solomon was married to an Egyptian princess at that time, and that she probably was a daughter of Psou Sen Nef.

The discovery was made in excavations at San el-Hagar, in the Nile delta a few miles from Port Said.

The tomb was intact, unlike so many Egyptian tombs which have been found despoiled by robbers.

Besides the sarcophagus there were two skeletons with gold and silver jewelry — necklaces, coronets, and bracelets—still on the bones. In one corner of the tomb, which was about the size of an average room, was a large sealed jar.

RICH DOWRY TO SOLOMON.

Solomon, son of David, probably was the most extoled of all kings in the Old Testament. Under his reign, the kingdom of Israel rose to its greatest splendor.

As his name means "peaceful," so was his 40 year reign [about 974 to 937 B. C.], in violent contrast to the reigns preceding and following it. Rather than engage in warfare, he enlarged his kingdom through consolidation and alliance. Such an instance was his marriage to the daughter of Egypt's pharaoh, for as dowry she brought the important Canaanite fortress, Gezer, which Solomon rebuilt.

Renowned for His Temple.

Solomon won renown as a builder, completely transforming Jerusalem, his capital city. To do this, he imported materials so lavishly that he made silver as common as stone, cedars as common as sycamores. He spent thirteen years building a magnificent palace and seven years constructing his famous temple.

Solomon is lauded most in history, however, for his wisdom, of which the ancient chroniclers wrote so glowingly. Later historians say this wisdom was assigned to Solomon through error, but the fact remains that his reign was prosperous, magnificent, and quiet.

2 WEEK STRIKE IN WASHINGTON HOTELS ENDED

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—An agreement ending the two weeks old strike at thirteen hotels here was reached today. Pickets were withdrawn immediately.

John R. Steelman, labor department conciliation chief, said a formal agreement between the hotel managements and the Hotel and Restaurant Employés International Alliance and Bartender league [A. F. of L.] would be signed tomorrow afternoon.

Steelman said the settlement was a compromise providing that the hotels give preference to union members in hiring new employés, that new employés who were not members must join the union within two weeks, that present nonunion employés need not join, and that strikers get back their old jobs.

HUSBAND SLAIN BY A RIVAL FOR HIS WIFE'S LOVE

A young husband was shot to death last night in front of 1413 Taylor street by a rival for his wife's love. The victim was Frank Raguso, 25 years old, 927 South Winchester avenue. Held as the confessed slayer is Joseph Cimiti, 50, a WPA worker.

Two months ago Raguso and his wife, Rose, 21, separated because he had not been supporting her. She took her two infant children, Ernest, 18 months old, and Ronald, 4, to live with her mother, Mrs. Katie Salerno, on the second floor of the Taylor street address. Cimiti lives on the first floor.

Mrs. Salerno is separated from her husband, John, and Cimiti, according to Lieut. Louis Capparelli of the Maxwell street station, had attempted to woo her. After Rose moved into Mrs. Salerno's home he switched his attentions to Rose. Recently, Lieut. Capparelli said, Cimiti told Mrs. Salerno he would marry Rose if Rose procured a divorce from Raguso. He also reputedly threatened to kill Raguso if the latter caused any trouble. Yesterday Raguso called on his wife. A quarrel ensued. Cimiti participated, followed Raguso into the street and shot him once in the heart.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL.

Charles Kerber, 70 years old, a retired lumberman, died of a heart attack last night in the Taylor hotel, 920 South Halsted street.

BOARD OF TRADE BROKER KILLED IN 12 STORY PLUNGE

Joseph C. Yore, 60 years old, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade since 1920, was killed yesterday afternoon in a plunge from the window of a twelfth floor room of the Sheridan Plaza hotel, 4607 Sheridan road.

Yore's wife, Nettie, told Policeman Edward Kane and Thomas Benn that her husband left their home at 4437 Beacon street at 11:45 a. m. He said he was going to attend noon mass at Our Lady of Lourdes church. He did not return.

Shortly after 4 p. m. Yore appeared at the hotel desk and asked the clerk, O. H. Rau, for the highest room he had, on the Sheridan road side. Yore had no baggage, and paid in advance. Less than two hours after he had been shown his room, his broken body was found on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Yore said her husband had suffered a nervous breakdown after undergoing an operation a year ago. No notes were found in the hotel room.

BRITAIN REVEALS POLICY ON HITLER CONQUEST TODAY

Chamberlain Will Speak Before Parliament.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 19.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will deliver a statement in the house of commons tomorrow on British policy in the face of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's coup in Czecho-Slovakia. The cabinet will meet before the session of parliament to pass on the pronouncement the prime minister is scheduled to deliver. Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, will make an identical statement in the house of lords.

The comings and goings of cabinet ministers and diplomats at No. 10 Downing street, Chamberlain's official residence, excited curious crowds today. However, informed observers maintained that the European situation is less menacing than it was made to appear from alarming reports in the British press about Germany's aggressive designs on Rumania.

Study Reaction at Home.

Confronted with the accomplished fact of Nazi occupation of Czecho-Slovakia, Chamberlain and his ministers are taking stock of the domestic reaction.

The cabinet is expected to ask parliament for further powers to increase the tempo of British rearmament in order to double the output of airplanes. There also is a probability that the government will seek a mandate for the introduction of some form of conscription. With the French informing the British that they would be unable to hold a line against the German legions, there is talk of a six months period of compulsory military training for all Britons up to the age of 25.

Some quarters suggested that the cabinet is considering the advisability of opening immediate consultations with France, soviet Russia and the Balkan states on plans to limit Germany's expansionist ambitions.

Chamberlain Reports to King.

Chamberlain today had talks with Halifax, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Alexander Cadogan, undersecretary for foreign affairs; Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty; Sir Kingsley Wood, minister for air, and Baron Chatfield, minister for coördination of defense. This evening the prime minister went to Buckingham palace to report to King George VI.

Diplomatic observers who are inclined to regard the so-called crisis in terms of a British-German trade war pointed out that Leslie Hore-Belisha, minister for war, was excluded from the consultations with Chamberlain, while Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, and Sir Thomas Inskip, secretary for dominions and colonies, saw the prime minister twice.

Halifax conferred with Jean Maisky, the soviet ambassador, and Charles Corbin, the French ambassador. The foreign secretary also had an interview with Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, who was called home "to report" on the Nazi coup in Czecho-Slovakia. Henderson arrived this evening. He barely had missed crossing paths with Herbert von Dirksen, German ambassador to London, who had been called back to Berlin also "to report."

Britain May Penalize Nazis.

Imposition of penalty taxes on German imports by the United States likely will be followed by British action under the Anglo-German payments agreement, it was stated. A proposal to end the agreement which gives Germany a free sterling balance of between $30,000,000-$35,000,000 was discussed by British officials. The agreement, concluded in July, helps both British and German exports but in view of their weakened financial system the Nazis find the sterling balance particularly useful.

Hitler's conquest was used by Sir Kingsley Wood, the aviation minister, in an appeal to 75,000 Britons to join the air force in the next twelve months. In a speech at Kidbrooke Wood warned that the German "policy" will bring in the end retribution and retreat."

Plans "Stop Hitler" Parley.

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—Informed quarters tonight said Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, was sounding out the United States, France, and soviet Russia on the possibility of a four power "stop Hitler" conference.

The report could not be confirmed. However, official sources pointed out that those countries were in close diplomatic collaboration and probably would continue in close touch as long as the European tension persisted.

Should the supposed plan for a common policy against further German expansion into southeastern Europe materialize informed quarters suggested Rumania, Greece, Jugo-Slavia, and Turkey also might be invited to join.

MEN OF BRITISH NAVY TOLD TO BE READY FOR DUTY

PORTLAND, England, March 19.—(AP)—Officers at the Portland naval base today took the unusual step of warning their men of the gravity of the international situation and of advising them to be ready for any emergency. No explanation was given for the notification.

The men were told, however, that naval plans in connection with the state visit on Tuesday of President Albert Lebrun of France had not been changed in any detail. The 5th Destroyer flotilla will leave Portland for Dover tomorrow morning to form part of the naval escort for the French president.

The battleship Royal Oak of the Home fleet was scheduled to sail tomorrow from Portland under sealed orders. "We have not the vaguest idea where we are going," an officer said. In London, the admiralty said the Royal Oak merely was going to join the home fleet, which has been on maneuvers in the Mediterranean.

Memel Vets Raise Cry to Be 'Saved' by Germany

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

MEMEL, March 19.—The cry "we want to return home to the reich" resounded today over swastika bedecked Memel as the German War Veterans union rededicated the statue of Kaiser Wilhelm, torn down by Lithuanians sixteen years ago. Almost the entire population took part in the celebration, attended by Dr. Ernst Neumann, Memel German fuehrer, and the German consul general. The ceremony was concluded with an oath of loyalty to Adolf Hitler, greater Germany, and the fuehrer of Memel Germans.

BLACKSMITH KILLED IN CRASH.

Mareogo, Ia., March 19.—[Special.]—Ernest Schaeffer, 55 years old, a blacksmith, of East Amana, was killed last night when his car left highway 6 and crashed into a ditch near Homestead. Patrolmen said a blowout caused the accident.

the "deep significance of the handshake exchanged between the Fuehrer and the Italian ambassador."

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who is the master of Germany when Hitler ventures into foreign countries, received Hitler in the name of the German fatherland.

Goering told Hitler it was impossible for him to find words to express the thanks of the German people for absorbing Bohemia and Moravia and accepting the protectorate over Slovakia.

"Instead of thanks," he said, "accept in the name of the entire German nation an oath that, come what may, we shall never abandon the powerful, great, colossal and heroic creation of yours. All great things evoke envy and spite, but we stand above them.

"Riches Restored," Goering Says.

"It is not possible for a cowardly nation to stand behind such a heroic soldier, for the German people are like their leader. You have made them rich again, restored their honor and made them great. In this hour the oath of all Germans is to maintain all this."

Julian Revay, Carpatho-Ukrainian leader who has established headquarters in Vienna, today charged that Ukrainian leaders are being murdered by Hungarian irregulars. Carpatho-Ukraine, former easternmost province of Czecho-Slovakia, has been annexed by Hungary.

A spokesman for Revay said the latter had received word of the summary hanging of a number of Ukrainians, including Dr. Koserhan, assistant of former Premier Augustin Volosin, who fled to Rumania.

The Carpatho-Ukrainians reported they had received unconfirmed reports of the killing of Theodor Revay, brother of Julian.

Other leaders of Carpatho-Ukraine were reported to have been tortured and severely injured. The Ukrainians charged that the Hungarian irregulars left their injured victims lying in the snow. The Hungarians were accused of shooting Ukrainian prisoners in Solok-Ryno and throwing the bodies into the River Tisza. Heavy fighting was reported to be continuing in Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine.

Hitler May Put on Crown; Medieval Title Is Revived

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 19.—Adolf Hitler was honored with the title of "Aggrandizer" in almost all German news papers today. It is a title bestowed on medieval German emperors who had particularly distinguished themselves in enlarging the empire. Some saw in the revival of this title the first suggestion of a crown for Hitler whose double title of Fuehrer and Chancellor has been regarded as transitional.

30,000,000 GERMANS STILL OUTSIDE REICH, BERLIN FIGURES SHOW

BERLIN, March 19.—Although 80,000,000 Germans now are at "home in the reich," 30,000,000 remain outside. One-third of them live in areas which formerly were German or are near Germany. The Brockhaus lexicon gives the following figures on Germans in places outside of Germany:

Argentina, 1,300,000; Brazil, 600,000; Chile, 30,000; Paraguay, 7,000; Uruguay, 5,000; Venezuela, 900; Canada, 300,000; Siberia, 150,000; Volga river region in Russia, 50,000; orient, 16,000; United States, 8,000,000.

[Nearly 2,000,000 German and Austrian born residents are in the United States, the higher German figure apparently including persons of German parentage not born in Germany.]

HITLER CONQUEST CONDEMNED BY MOSCOW IN NOTE

Calls Gobbling of Czechs Act of Aggression.

MOSCOW, March 19.—(AP)—Soviet Russia in a note to Germany refused today to recognize Adolf Hitler's absorption of Bohemia, Moravia, and Slovakia as legal, condemning it as "arbitrary, violent, and aggressive."

The Russian note, following similar actions by the British and French governments, declared Berlin's explanation of justifications could not be considered "correct and corresponding to facts known to the whole world."

The note was signed by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov and was addressed to the German ambassador in Moscow, Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenberg. It answered notes from the German ambassador announcing the German coup.

Text of Soviet Note.

Following is the text of the note:

"I have the honor to confirm receipt of your notes dated the 16th and 17th instant informing the soviet government of the inclusion of Czechia [Bohemia-Moravia] in the German empire and of the establishment of a German protectorate over it.

"The soviet government does not consider it possible to pass the above mentioned notes in silence and thus create the false impression of its allegedly indifferent attitude to Czecho-Slovak events and, therefore, finds it necessary in answer to the above notes, to express its real attitude to the aforesaid events.

Says Czechs Are Peaceful.

"FIRST, the political and historical conceptions expounded in the introductory part of the German ordinance as grounds and justification for it and, in particular, references to the existence of the Czecho-Slovak state as a source of constant unrest and menace to European peace, to lack of vitality of the Czecho-Slovak state and to resulting necessity for particular care on the part of the German empire, cannot be considered as correct and corresponding to facts known to the whole world. In actual fact, after the first world war the Czecho-Slovak republic was one of the few European states where internal tranquility and peaceable foreign policy were really secured.

"SECOND, the soviet government is not aware of any constitution of state that entitles the head of a state to abolish its independent existence as a state without the consent of his people. It is difficult to admit that any people would voluntarily agree to the destruction of its independence and to inclusion in another state, and still less with regard to a people that for hundreds of years fought for its independence. In signing the Berlin act of the 15th instant [Emil] Hacha, president of Czecho-Slovakia, had no authority from his people for doing so and acted in manifest contradiction to articles 64 and 65 of the Czecho-Slovak constitution. Consequently, the aforesaid act cannot be considered legally valid.

No Expression of Will.

"THIRD, the principle of self-determination of nations, not infrequently referred to by the German government, presupposes the free expression of the will of the people which cannot be replaced by the s' nature of one or two individuals, however high the positions they may occupy. In the present case there was no expression of will, even in the form of such plebiscites as took place, for example, in determining the fate of Upper Silesia and the Saar region.

"FOURTH, in the absence of any expression of the will of the Czech people, occupation of Czechia by German troops and subsequent actions of the German government cannot but be considered as arbitrary, violent, and aggressive.

"FIFTH, the above remarks also refer in their entirety to the change in status of Slovakia, subordinating the latter to the German empire, which was not justified by any expression of the will of the Slovak people.

Refuses to O. K. Conquest.

"SIXTH, the actions of the German government served as a signal for gross invasion of Carpathian Ruthenia [Carpatho-Ukraine] by Hungarian troops and for violation of the elementary rights of its population.

"SEVENTH, in view of the above, the soviet government cannot recognize inclusion of Czechia and also, in one form or another, of Slovakia into the German empire to be legitimate and in conformity with generally accepted standards of international law and justice or the principle of self-determination of nations.

"EIGHTH, in the opinion of the soviet government, the actions of the German government, far from eliminating any danger to universal peace, have, on the contrary, created and enhanced this danger, violated political stability in Central Europe, increased elements of alarm already previously created in Europe and dealt a fresh blow to the security of peoples."

Mrs. William J. Dickson holding son, Donald, the 17,000th baby at Presbyterian hospital, and a baby bond that was given to him because that was his number.

Presbyterian hospital's 17,000th baby was born Saturday night. He is Donald Telfer Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dickson of Oak Park, and his numerical importance won his a $100 government baby bond, the gift of the hospital.

The baby's father is head of the department of employé relation research at the Western Electric company. His mother was born in China, daughter of the late Rev. Frank W. Bible, Presbyterian missionary who at one time headed the Chicago headquarters of the board of foreign missions.

During the first year of Presbyterian hospital's operation [1884], only six babies were born. In 1938 883 were born, more than the entire number born during its first twenty years' history. In the last four years only one mother out of each 1,170 giving birth to babies in the hospital has died.

BRITISH MISSION REACHES WARSAW FOR TRADE TALKS

WARSAW, March 19.—(AP)—Robert S. Hudson, British overseas trade secretary, and Frank T. A. Ashton-Gwatkin, arrived here today for the first stop on a trade mission to northern European capitals.

The swift developments in Europe in the last week gave special significance to the mission which, among other places, will visit Moscow. Hudson hinted yesterday before his departure from London that political discussions might overshadow other aspects of the tour.

[British Prime Minister Chamberlain canceled a scheduled visit by the mission to Berlin as "inappropriate" after Germany dissolved Czecho-Slovakia.]

A Tisket, a Tasket; Luman Has Lost His Coal Basket

Luman Schaefer and his little basket made thirteen trips yesterday between the Pennsylvania railroad right of way at 54th street and Normal avenue and a small truck parked near by. No. 13 was one too many and he was arrested by Stockyards police on a charge of stealing coal. They also seized Eugene Ryan, the truck driver. Both live at 5408 La Salle street.

ECUADOR FINDS DICTATOR RULE SPOILS BUSINESS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

QUITO, Ecuador, March 19.—Ecuador has found its recent dictatorial régimes expensive, not only because of the high cost of government with paid informers, political bribery and general extravagance, but in the loss of business and prestige abroad.

An El Commercia editorial today said: "Every one is familiar with the trials of foreign capital in the final stages of the recent dictatorships with their ingenuous antipathy without investigation to capital's alleged exploitation of the weak and their consequent war to death on foreign capital invested in our country.

"The fact that each company had a legal contract did not deter the government not only from forcibly revising the contract but also passing a law making future contracts subject to constant revision. Naturally this disturbed investments."

BENES IMPLORES U. S. TO OPPOSE DICTATOR TREND

Assails Nazis for Breaking Pledge to Czechs.

"I beg the American people not to tolerate the conceptions and ideas now trying to dominate Europe. In the approaching battle for the victory of the spirit against the sword the United States has a great rôle to play. Be ready for that conflict and be strong—O people of democracy!"

With these words Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, concluded a radio address yesterday to the American people.

Dr. Benes spoke freely in denunciation of the Nazi conquerors of his country for the first time since his self-imposed censorship following the pact of Munich and his resignation.

Speaks on Round Table.

Dr. Benes, now a lecturer at the University of Chicago, spoke on the university's Sunday morning radio round table.

Discussing the meaning of the last Czech crisis, Dr. Benes told of the history of his people, their difficult geographical position between the Germans and the Magyars, their long struggle for liberty, and their attempt to form a true democracy after the world war.

"From the beginning," he said, "it has been a battle for the existence of the state. A dictatorship cannot tolerate freedom. A dictatorship can permit no liberty, no freedom, no democracy in its vicinity. With the subjugation of Czecho-Slovakia, freedom is being guillotined."

Describes Nazi Régime.

The Nazi régime, Dr. Benes said, is based on three conceptions:

"The régime does not recognize any obligations unless it is expedient for it to do so; it will fulfil no promise; it will respect no law; it will keep no pledge; it will show no tolerance, either political or religious."

The second principle, he continued, is the rule of force and violence and the preachment that might is right. And the third, he said, is that the end justifies the means.

Turning to the so-called September crisis, Dr. Benes recalled that the Czech people were called on to sacrifice territory in the name of world peace with the pledge by the four great powers of the integrity of their remaining boundaries.

Tells of Rule by Terror.

"Then," he said, "came the betrayal by Germany, which has brutally broken all its pledges and obligations, has invaded the territory of the Czechs and the Slovaks, and has established a so-called protectorate.

"It has imposed its régime of terror, of secret police, of racial and religious persecution. And it has declared that all this is done in the name of peace in Europe.

"This dictatorship has assured peace—the peace of the cemetery!"

2,500 Chicagoans Protest Seizure of Czecho-Slovakia

Resolutions assailing Hitler's grab of Czecho-Slovakia were sent last night to President Roosevelt and Pope Pius XII. following a mass-meeting of 2,500 persons at 1438 West 18th street. The meeting was sponsored by the National Alliance of Czech Catholics. The resolution to the President applauded his denunciation of the action. The pope was asked to intervene to protect religious treasures and shrines in Czecho-Slovakia.

ONE DEAD, ONE HURT IN FIRE.

Henry Peppers, 74 years old, colored, died yesterday of suffocation when fire attacked a two story frame building at 4148 Prairie avenue. Mary Leach, 32, colored, was seriously injured when she jumped from a window. Twelve other tenants escaped.

"Periscope" Glasses

Raymond Brown reading book in Billings hospital with the aid of new "periscope" glasses.

Sixty-five elementary and high school pupils confined in Billings hospital with spinal afflictions were awaiting their turns yesterday to try the new periscope reading glasses obtained for their ward.

Ray Brown of Cassopolis, Mich., announced the verdict of the first group to experiment with the glasses.

"They're swell," said he. Patients using them can lie on their backs, hold books near their midriffs, and looking straight up can read by means of a series of tiny mirrors in the spectacles.

The glasses cost $25 a pair. They were purchased by Miss Virginia Hereley, investigator for the board of education, on authorization of Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent in charge of special schools. Three teachers conduct classes for the pupils, most of whom are infantile paralysis cases.

DR. BENES LEARNS 3 OF 5 RELATIVES ARE SAFE ABROAD

Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, has learned that three of his relatives are safe. Their fate under the new Nazi régime had been unknown.

This was disclosed yesterday by the exile's nephew, Bohus Benes, who serves Dr. Benes as secretary. The nephew, however, refused to say which relatives the news concerned.

Among the relatives for whom members of the family previously expressed concern, were Dr. Benes' brothers — Vojta, former minister of education; Albert, a former Czech senator, and John, a Milwaukee, Wis., cabinet maker, and two sisters living near Prague.

THREATEN BENES' NEPHEW.

LONDON, March 19. — (AP) — Mrs. Bohus Benes, at whose home here former Czecho-Slovak President Eduard Benes stayed before going to Chicago, today disclosed she had received a mysterious telephone warning.

Mrs. Benes, wife of a nephew of Dr. Benes, said she had been warned her husband would be harmed unless he ceased "political activities."

GERMANS REPORT FINDING HELIUM ON DUTCH BORDER

OLDENZAAL, The Netherlands, March 19.—(AP)—Mother Nature today appeared to have solved Germany's problem of getting helium for Dr. Hugo Eckener's Zeppelins.

An authoritative source reported that Germany has discovered, just across the border from here, a large supply of the noninflammable gas which the United States, with a world monopoly, refuses to sell to the reich.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes last May denied a permit to export the gas to Germany on the ground it might be used for military purposes. Dr. Eckener decided to abandon the use of hydrogen, a highly inflammable gas, after the Hindenburg exploded at Lakehurst, N. J., on May 6, 1937, killing thirty-five persons.

125,000 CALLED TO FRENCH ARMY; DICTATOR NAMED

Daladier to Have Decree Powers Until Nov. 30.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 19.—A few minutes after the senate had invested the government of Premier Edouard Daladier with dictatorial powers until Nov. 30 by a vote of 286 to 17, the premier met with his cabinet. He began immediately to translate the new authority into increased military strength for France.

The purpose of the meeting, it was reported, was to set in motion the mobilization of reservists as was done last summer in the first Czech crisis. No whole classes will be mobilized, but some reports place the number of reservists belonging to special categories who will be quietly called to the colors by direct personal summons as high as the equivalent of two full classes.

Calls Fortress Troops.

The call was reported to include 125,000 special fortress troops from the last three military classes which have completed their military service. An additional class totaling 240,000 men also may be called up to bring the standing army at home and in the colonies to a strength close to 900,000.

Normally there are only two classes of conscripts under arms at the same time.

While this military precaution may be motivated by the possibility of Italy, with German support, commencing an undeclared war in French Somaliland [east central Africa], most observers here believe that it was inspired mainly by the threatening Mediterranean crisis.

The European situation is almost exactly what it was last summer when the German threat against Czecho-Slovakia first became acute and in many detailed ways even history seems to be repeating itself.

Seek U. S. Attitude, Too.

One difference, however, is that England and France have not solemnly proclaimed their determination to defend the Rumanians against aggression as they did for the Czechs. The final official attitude of the two powers apparently depends on active consultations now going on among half a dozen or more capitals, including Moscow, and probably even Washington, D. C.

The dominant tendency of the French government—believed to be based on Daladier's own view—is to announce publicly that France, England, and Russia will give Rumania immediate military support if she is attacked—in other words declare war on Germany.

Where to Draw the Line.

According to several concordant reports, the English this time are leaving the onus of the decision to France, so if Russia comes in it seems on the surface that a large "halt" sign would be posted along the Rumanian frontiers and doubtless all across eastern Europe, from the Baltic to the Dardanelles, as well.

However, just as last September, there are undercurrents which cannot be neglected. In diplomatic circles here it is known that the British cabinet, while united on the necessity of putting up a barrier to German expansion somewhere, is divided on just where to draw the line. One party, said to be the biggest, favors the line of Warsaw, Bucharest, and Belgrade. The other party would abandon Poland, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia and fight only if Hitler tries to cross the Dardanelles or Russia's Ukrainian frontier.

Can Match Speed of Foes.

Daladier today had a long talk with the Rumanian minister, George Tatarescu, indicating that he was taking an ever greater personal interest in the conduct of France's foreign affairs. It was officially announced that the French ambassador to Berlin, Robert Coulondre, was leaving Berlin on Monday for Paris, ostensibly to report on the situation.

The dictator powers give Daladier the ability to match the quick decisions of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. They are broader than any ever before placed in the hands of a premier in the peacetime history of the Third Republic. The only check on his decree power is the approval that must be given by his cabinet and by President Albert Lebrun. The chamber of deputies adopted the dictator bill yesterday.

Before today's vote Daladier told the senate that the French-German "good neighbor" treaty, signed after the Munich agreement last Sept. 29, had been wiped out by Hitler's conquest of Czecho-Slovakia.

CROATS WILL DISCUSS AUTONOMY DEMANDS WITH SERBIAN REGENT

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 19.—(AP)—Prince Paul, regent of Jugo-Slavia, has left for Brod in northern Jugo-Slavia where it is believed he will meet Dr. Vladko Machek, the Croat Peasant leader, for important discussions of the Croat demands for autonomy.

Machek's paper, Hrvatski Dnevnik, in a special edition titled "Which Way Will Croatia Turn," today dealt with stories published abroad saying Machek would ask for the protection of Adolf Hitler of Germany against the Serbs at Belgrade.

Everything will be done to settle the Croatian problem, the paper said, but it declared there was no truth in assertions abroad that Machek "would take the law into his own hands."

The Croats were incorporated in Jugo-Slavia after the world war and have demanded autonomy.

THEY WHO READ

By CALEB

ACME of paradoxes is the simultaneous increase, in this country, of bookreading along with the growth in its competitors for leisure time: games, lectures, movies, plays, concerts, and radio. But whatever the causes, there is the fact; and remembering that books are come by either through purchase, gift, or loan—we stepped into our third-floor Rental Library with inquiry on our lips as to how the latter method of book distribution was faring.

Said to be the largest establishment of its kind in Chicago, we knew the answer received here would be authoritative. "Book rental patronage," we were assured, "is steadily growing! April first marks our eighth anniversary, and users of the service now number many thousands. We carry from one to five hundred copies of every novel currently published, and circulate from twelve to fifteen thousand titles yearly. While women, as you might surmise, comprise the larger readership percentage, men run an interestingly close second.

"As you might also surmise, of the numerous brands of reading offered such a large clientele—psychology, philosophy, science, biography, history, travel, essays, short stories, drama, poetry, art, economics, fiction—the last-named is still the most popular. One of today's truly indicative trends, however, is the recent rise in popularity of non-fiction. Works of science, and the newer-type biography popularized by Strachey, Zweig, Maurois, Ludwig, Bradford, and others, are particularly in demand."

"But what about handling?" we suggested. "No difficulties there," was the reply. "A first requirement of the section is that books must be current, clean and presentable. All soiled volumes are promptly discarded." . . . "And what about the community 'literary influence' exerted by such an enormous rental collection," we persisted. "Would you say it tended to make readers out of non-readers?" . . . "Off-hand, yes: because good books inspire enthusiasms; the enthusiastic renter often converts a non-reading friend to the book he extols: and the next thing we know, the friend has registered, too! Then, a considerable inducement, of course, is the modest outlay entailed by rental."

A sudden influx of patrons discouraged further interviewing. Besides—an intriguing title nearby had caught our own eye, and being congenitally susceptible to books, we asked for a registry card. Entering as inquirers—we remained as admirers—and departed as customers in our own right.

SYRIANS BATTLE FRENCH TROOPS; HUNDREDS HURT

Fights Flare as Autonomy Movement Spreads.

DAMASCUS, Syria, March 19.—(AP)—French troops and Syrian police fought demonstrators in the streets of Damascus and Homs today while outbreaks occurred in a dozen scattered sectors in Syria.

By midday several persons were reported to have been killed and hundreds wounded in street battles. Homs is 100 miles north of Damascus.

Demonstrators in Damascus, most of them Syrian nationalists angered by France's failure to ratify the 1936 treaty giving Syria independence, exchanged shots with troops and police.

Fails to Form Cabinet.

Mazhar Pasha Raslane, who undertook to form a cabinet yesterday, four days after Lousti Hassar's government resigned, so far has failed to round up sufficient support for a new ministry.

In the seacoast zone of Latakia, French troops were trying to crush autonomists who have kept the entire region in an uproar with demonstrations for more than a week.

Syrian troops and police also were hard pressed to keep order in the wild Jebel Druse hill country, where tribal leaders long have demanded full autonomy.

Third Movement Flares.

A third autonomy movement flared in the Pejr Ez Zor region of central Syria.

Communications within the city of Damascus and between it and many of its suburbs were cut by demonstrators who chopped down poles to form barricades.

[France holds Syria and Lebanon under league of nations mandate and in 1936 concluded treaties promising them independence this year. The French parliament has not ratified them and riotous demonstrations have broken out in Syria from time to time.]

Nicaragua Press Assails Hitler as Civilization Peril

(Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 19.—The press today denounced Fuehrer Adolf Hitler for his recent actions in Europe. La Prensa, a conservative paper, declared "Hitler's insanity will precipitate the destruction of civilization. Tomorrow Tyrol and then Ukraine will become parts of Germany until a general war follows, ending civilization."

Escanaba, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—Barbara Banks has been named queen of the smelt jamboree to be held here in April. Last week she went out with a net to dip up a few of the fish, but they had to cut a hole in the ice of the Escanaba river before she could reach down to them.

MASKED GUNMEN TAKE $2,710 LOOT FROM 2 COUPLES

Two couples were robbed of $2,710 in cash, jewelry, and furs early today by masked bandits in the Canal-Harrison garage at 510 West Harrison street. The victims were David Kane, 1233 North Hoyne avenue, owner of the garage; his wife, Gertrude, and Irving Kessler, 1225 Lunt avenue, a clerk, and his wife, Belle.

The Kanes and Kesslers had been to a loop movie. Before going home Kane decided to stop at his garage. He was followed into the garage by a car containing three men. Two, both masked, jumped out with revolvers drawn.

They held the Kanes and Kesslers and Tom Barton, colored attendant, against a wall. From Mrs. Kane the gunmen took a silver fox jacket valued at $600; two rings, one valued at $500 and the other at $100, and a diamond wrist watch costing $600. Mrs. Kessler gave up a silver fox fur valued at $350 and three rings valued at $500. Kane lost $25 in cash and Kessler $35.

GLUM CROWD SEES PARADE OF NAZIS' MIGHT IN PRAGUE

Estimate New Garrison at 6,000 to 8,000 Men.

PRAGUE, March 19.—(AP)—A parade of between 6,000 and 8,000 Nazi troops down St. Wenceslaus square today gave the first real indication of the strength of the German army garrison in this former capital of Czecho-Slovakia.

A fair sized crowd watched the parade staged as a part of German army day observed throughout Greater Germany. Germans along the line of march saluted the regimental colors, but for the most part the gray clad legions goose stepped past lines of motionless, silent people.

Parts of the 4th and 16th army corps under the commands of Lieut. Gen. Viktor von Schwedler and Maj. Gen. Huppner participated. They included about 4,000 infantrymen, a battalion each from the air force and field gendarmes, six anti-aircraft batteries, motorcycle and bicycle companies, 200 tanks, and 100 pieces of light artillery.

Two Hours to Pass.

It required two hours for the parade to pass the reviewing stand of Gen. Johannes von Blaskowitz, military ruler of Bohemia and commander of the 3d field army which comprises three army corps.

Meanwhile, how much military might Germany gained through establishing her protectorate over Bohemia and Moravia was a question of debate.

Military experts estimated that what Germany obtained in material alone would enable her to hold out in any war about a year longer than she could have a week ago.

They emphasized this was only a guess, for information on what military power Czecho-Slovakia possessed was known solely to the Czech and German general staffs.

Industrial Capacity.

As important as the actual weapons on hand were a gold supply of about $100,000,000, the potential capacity of the country's great munitions factories and its mineral wealth.

Germany obtained full equipment for 1,500,000 men, which in the opinion of experts is new and first class. She also got gas masks along with other equipment, about 1,500 first line planes, and as many second and third line bombers.

Excerpts from British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham, England, Friday night attacking Adolf Hitler were printed here today for the first time. They were accompanied by editorial comment denying the prime minister's statements.

Arrest Friend of Benes.

The news that France and Britain sent protests to Berlin against the protectorate over Bohemia and Moravia also was published along with the fact that the German foreign office had rejected them.

The army invited young Germans in Bohemia and Moravia—now German citizens—to volunteer. A special call was made to officers and noncommissioned officers who served in the Czech army.

Among arrests reported today was that of Dr. Jan Kozak, well known professor of philosophy at Prague university and friend of former President Eduard Benes. He was also a member of the Czech parliament.

Czech army garrisons and munitions dumps were fully occupied by the Germans, but the Czech army had not yet been fully disbanded. The process was going on but it was said it would take some time to liquidate it entirely.

What to do with the 100,000 men and officers who formed the framework of the army was considered a problem.

Some officers were being used by the German army as translators and guides, because few Germans know the Czech language or their way about Bohemia.

Jews Call Off Holy Land Strike Against British Plan

JERUSALEM, March 19.—(AP)—The Jewish national council announced today indefinite postponement of the twenty-four hour strike throughout the Holy Land, which had been scheduled to begin at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. The decision was believed due to the grave international situation. The council issued the call for the strike last Friday as the first step in its program of "drastic political action" against Britain's Palestine plan.

TELEVISION EXPERT SAYS:

"It's Refreshing to Let up—Light up a mild, good-tasting Camel"

Copyright, 1939, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

READY? A television broadcast is about to begin. Everyone feels excitement in the air. Philco engineer Richard E. Waggener knows exactly what to do. He passes Camels, takes one himself . . . a mild, good-tasting Camel! "It's grand for one's poise to let up and light up a Camel."

RECEIVING the show with a home set: Mrs. Dorothy Temple, who runs a home, has a job too. She is enjoying a cigarette—a Camel—for, like so many women, she finds a delicate fragrance in Camels that is very appealing. "Camels taste so good," she says. "They do have a wonderful mildness."

THE SMILE OF ANTICIPATION: Dick finds a moment to enjoy a Camel. "Camels are different," he says, "mild, full-flavored. I smoke all I want, and they never jangle my nerves."

250 WORDS PER MINUTE! Harry L. White can take down legal testimony up to 250 words per minute, for he is an expert court reporter. "After catching questions and answers on the fly, hour after hour, believe me, it feels good to let up—light up a Camel. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!'" Camels have the rich, ripe flavor of finer, milder tobaccos. You'll find those choice tobaccos do make a difference!

SPRING SHYLY CASTS ASIDE WINTER'S CLOAK

Tiny Buds Peep Through Barren Snow.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Spring begins officially tomorrow. But in Cook county the woods still are turning backhand flips on the calendar. Many hollows are dappled with snow, and the edges of creeks are encrusted with ice. Flowers bloom only in florists' windows.

This is not abnormal. It is just about right for this region, although last year spring was well under way on March 21.

So far, woodsmen say, there have been only two or three growing days this spring. But, given three or four warm, sunshiny days such as yesterday, Cook county's forests will be transformed. Although to the layman they seem uninspired, bleak, and barren, veteran foresters can read awakening life in the shading of a stem.

The Meadowlark Calls.

A tour of the southernmost forest preserves in Cook county Saturday with James L. Igoe, superintendent of the 6th division, and Guy Jones, forester, disclosed many true indications. Although a snowbird, with a whirring call, made a swift, gray arrow across a prairie, a meadowlark's song rang out in a frozen swamp.

The trees are bare and leafless, but the willow branches, dark amber in the dead of winter, are now lemon yellow in the sun. The spreading, fanlike branches of the red dogwood are a haze of purple. Even the gray dogwood, seemingly so gray white and sere, is covered with tiny, hard buds. Red buds are swelling on the lacelike boughs of the wild crab.

Spring comes earliest in the Chicago area to a little ravine near Thornton known as Brownell grove. Even here all seemed wintry and desolate, with fallen, brown leaves covering the ground.

Dogtooth Violets Hiding.

These Forester Jones tenderly scraped away. Beneath was a mass of dogtooth violet plants, green and flourishing. In two weeks, he predicted, velvety blue violets will cover the slope.

Two miles away, in Shabbona woods, he led the way through a half mile thicket of pussy willows, their branches shining rose brown and bronze in the sun.

The way here was fretted with ditches covered with ice. The trunks of the pussy willows had been gnawed bare by rabbits, driven there in hunger by the high snows. But the branches themselves sang with new life. Many were studded with tight, long, red shoots, nestling close to the bough. Many more had burst open into fat, furry, gray white buds, soft and velvety.

Hunt Dandelion Leaves.

Elsewhere near Green lake other signs of spring were evident. Three men armed with spiked sticks were seen out hunting for dandelion leaves for salad. Moss on the tree trunks was turning a brilliant green. A patch of low lying thistle, its soft, fuzzy leaves like stars, shone out, a lonely patch of green in a brown waste.

A mourning dove cooed softly in the distance and a crow cawed lugubriously from the top of a tall, bare elm. A few early starlings were about. Inside the fieldhouse at Green Lake a group of National Youth administration boys was busily making bird houses. The wren houses must be up April 1, they said, and those of the purple martens by April 14.

Wayside streams rippled and glinted when the sun struck them, but in all it was a quiet ripple, as quiet as the almost birdless air. No frogs have been seen yet, nor have their raucous voices been heard.

"So you know by that," Forester Jones surmised, "that spring isn't really here yet, for the frog freezes three times, you know. . . . You get three freezes after the first frog croaks."

Burglars Seized

Harry Turrell looks over his belongings which two young burglars had piled on bed in his home when he returned and surprised them, and held them until police arrived.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Two youthful burglars who were seized early yesterday in the home of Harry Turrell at 8211 Kimbark avenue confessed at the Burnside police station to looting twelve other south side homes. The youths are George Haas, 18 years old, 411 South Wabash avenue, and Lewis Hellfreitsch, 16, of 3115 Madison street.

Turrell and his wife were returning home when they saw the front door open. While his wife hurried to a neighbor's home to call police, Turrell ran inside and grabbed Haas. Police caught the other youth as he ran out the back door. The two had placed their loot on a bed and were about to gather it in a bedspread when Turrell surprised them.

WIFE KILLS SELF WITH GUN WHEN MATE CHIDES HER

Mrs. Betty Prince, 38 years old, was fatally shot near the heart early today in the Commodore Liquor and Wine store, owned by her husband, Abe, 46, at 3914 Sheridan road.

Prince told Lieut. Frank Walsh of the Town Hall station that his wife shot herself shortly after he had jokingly scolded her for snoring. He fixed the time at 1:50 a. m., just before closing. Prince did not report the shooting until 2:50 a. m. By the time police could get Mrs. Prince to the American hospital she was dead.

Prince explained his delay in reporting the shooting by stating he had hoped to revive his wife first. The only reason he could offer for her act was that she had a quick temper, and resented his remark about snoring. The Princes were married seven months ago. Both had previously been married. The Prince home is at 732 Bittersweet place.

Arguments to Begin Today in Konkowski Job Trial

VICTORY BEFORE PEACE, BURGOS' REPLY TO MADRID

Franco Is Firm Against Giving Conditions.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BURGOS, Spain, March 19.—The nationalist government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco has spurned Madrid's radio plea for an "honorable peace," it was revealed today.

Ramon Serrano Suner.

Ramon Serrano Suner, minister of interior and propaganda, said that only a "victorious peace" is acceptable to Burgos.

The nationalists suspect that "honorable peace" means conditions and they refuse to consider anything less than unconditional surrender with the vanquished loyalists throwing themselves on the mercy of the victors. Thus the situation remains deadlocked.

Act with Generosity.

"I learned the defense junta [Madrid's government] asks the national government's conditions for an honorable peace," Suner told the Spanish press in Saragossa. "That cannot be. We can only go on to a victorious peace.

"Moreover, the great number of Red militiamen crossing the frontier is tangible proof of the generosity with which we are acting, but it must be remembered that this generosity is shown after weeding out the real criminals."

Met with Firmness.

The peace plea of Julian Besteiro, foreign minister of the defense junta, addressed personally to Franco from the Union radio station in Madrid, was the most direct public effort yet made to get terms from Burgos, but it met with the same firmness as earlier overtures.

There is not the slightest idea here of accepting anything short of complete surrender. The most prevalent view is that such a solution is unlikely without an offensive to bring the enemy to its knees.

Wife Found Dead in Own Yard; Arm Injured; Cause a Mystery

Prophetstown, Ill., March 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lyle Dingman, wife of a veterinary surgeon, was found dead under mysterious circumstances in the yard of her home here this morning. Her right arm had been twisted out of joint at the elbow, but there were no other marks of violence.

The body was found by Dr. Dingman about 8:45 a. m. He told State's Attorney L. L. Winn of Whiteside county that he saw his wife about 2:30 a. m. Mrs. Dingman was fully clothed, except for her shoes, which he found in the bathroom of their home.

Dr. Dingman told the state's attorney he and his wife had visited a number of taverns last night and returned home about 2 o'clock. He said he went to bed a few minutes later and his wife went into the bathroom, apparently to undress.

The veterinary said he dozed for a few minutes and was awakened by a noise at his front door. Believing some of the friends with whom they had been passing the evening had decided to make a late call, he did not go to the door.

The husband said some time later he was awakened by cries and believed his wife was calling from outside the house. He said he went outside and looked about the yard, but saw no one. He returned to his room and went to sleep.

Dr. W. H. Palmer of Rockford performed an autopsy late today for Coroner C. M. Fry, but was unprepared to announce the cause of Mrs. Dingman's death until he had made laboratory examinations.

Coroner Fry has called an inquest tomorrow in the Frank L. Dudley mortuary in Prophetstown.

Dr. Dingman is 31 years old and a native of Prophetstown. His wife was 28. They were married in September, 1930.

HOLDUP VICTIM SIGNALS POLICE; ROBBER CAUGHT

Harry Errett, who says he is a paroled convict from Wisconsin, was captured last night ten minutes after he had held up W. A. Fischer, 1831 Barry avenue.

Errett, who is 22 years old, stopped Fischer in front of 4706 Beacon street and held his hand in a pocket as though holding gun. Fischer surrendered $13.

A witness who had seen the holdup called police and Sergts. Clarence Sweeney and Gus Bellack and their squads from the Town Hall station responded. They were signaled by Fischer, who was following Errett. They captured Errett in a building at 1310 Leland avenue, where he tried to hide.

JAPANESE CLAIM PLANES SMASH CHINESE BASES

SHANGHAI, March 19.—(AP)—Japanese naval commanders today reported their planes smashed a Chinese counter offensive along the Han river in north central Hupeh province. After wiping up the Chinese along a sparsely settled stretch of the river, the commanders said the planes continued on to Siangyang and Fancheng, bombing these major Chinese military bases.

Dispatches from the front said heavy Chinese troop concentrations, barracks and warehouses in the two towns were bombed by dozens of planes. "Great loss of life" was reported in an air raid on 500 junks carrying Chinese troops across the Han at Siangyang.

INDIGNATION IN LONDON.

Mr. Chamberlain's expressions of indignation over the destruction of Czecho-Slovakia were admirably phrased. His tone and his words were so well chosen that it seems unfeeling to subject his speech to analysis. The task is not made easier by the fact that Americans cannot but share Mr. Chamberlain's distaste for Herr Hitler's manners. The Fuehrer's vocabulary is offensive to our ears and the brutality of his conduct is disgusting.

The obvious superiority of Mr. Chamberlain's manners no doubt has persuaded some Americans that it is the duty of this country to align itself with Britain and France if war should come. That sounds illogical when formulated in words, but of course it is illogical. The fallacy, however, is not apparent to those responsible for our foreign policy, for Mr. Welles' statement shows them already well advanced toward discovering an American duty to police central Europe in the interest of Britain and France.

Indignation—even the genuine article—is cheap. Mr. Chamberlain can therefore easily afford to indulge it. It is a small price to venture for the maintenance of his party's prestige at home and for the recovery of British prestige abroad. Mr. Chamberlain's speech almost causes us to forget that twenty years ago England played a foremost part in the creation of Czecho-Slovakia as an instrument of British and French policy. The purpose was to surround Germany with a ring of steel, of which Czecho-Slovakia was an important segment. German speaking peoples were to be permanently separated and rendered impotent.

The Czechs accepted the dangerous mission assigned them and remained loyal to their treaty obligations to Britain and France. Czecho-Slovakia might have suffered less if she had double-crossed the western powers several years ago, but she chose not to do so. Her reward came in September at Munich when England and France for their own purposes abandoned her to her fate.

The events of the last few days were clearly foreshadowed last September when the deal for the Sudetenland was made. At that time Czecho-Slovakia ceased in fact to exist as an independent sovereignty, although the fiction of independence was retained. In September it was not possible to say when Germany would put an end to the fiction, but it was altogether certain that Hitler could do so whenever it seemed expedient to him. Meanwhile the Czechs, their land, and their resources were substantially at his disposal. And the Munich settlement was hailed by Mr. Chamberlain and the majority of his people as a triumph of the British policy of appeasement.

The British government cannot have it both ways. They created Czecho-Slovakia for their own purposes and for their own purposes sold their creature down the river to Hitler. Perhaps they were justified both times and perhaps they were not, but at any rate they cannot blame Germany for all that has happened, because Britain, not Germany, was responsible for the creation of the republic and Britain shares with Germany and France responsibility for the dismemberment. Britain took credit for it only last September as an act of high statesmanship.

And, of course, it is preposterous for any British government to express indignation at the acquisition of territory by force. Today the British empire consists of 13 million square miles of territory, almost all of which was acquired by conquest. Much more than half of King George's half billion subjects are held in the empire only through the use of force. The Swiss and the Swedes might express indignation over the fate of Czecho-Slovakia without being accused of hypocrisy, but not the British. Their title to the richest areas in Asia and Africa is no better than Germany's to Prague.

Nevertheless, it seems altogether probable that our amateur Englishmen, and perhaps other alien-minded Americans as well, will demand that we rush to Britain's side. We shall be told that by doing so we will be acting [as we thought we were in 1917] to defend small nations and democracy. In reality we shall be defending the British [and French] empires, including the territories wrested from Germany in the last war.

The British no doubt wish today, as they wished a century ago, that they might leave the problems of central Europe to central Europeans; but so long as the dictators threaten the trade and possessions of the empires calling themselves democracies England has to intervene.

We are in a vastly more fortunate position. Our territory is not in danger of raids. No European nation, even if it wanted to, could threaten our security or would dare risk the consequences of attacking us. If we keep our shirts on we can preserve free institutions in a free country regardless of what happens or doesn't happen in Europe. It will not be easy, but it can be done, provided we do not allow anger, fear, or hyphenated loyalties to betray us into quixotic follies.

Now, above all, Americans should avoid divided allegiance. This is their country, whether their ancestors came from Britain, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, or any place else and regardless also of racial and religious origins. Here and here alone the duty of Americans lies. We cannot save Europe or its persecuted minorities if Europe is determined to destroy itself, but we can save ourselves if we recognize that Americans owe a duty to each other but not to any foreign country or alien leadership.

We are not a British colony, though Mr. Chamberlain and the Anglophiles in the east no doubt wish we would behave as one. We must look to our own interest only. There must be no divided loyalty—not even in the state department.

If America is again drawn into a war to save the empires from the dictators we shall have a dictatorship clamped upon us, for the prosecution of a war necessitates the abrogation of individual liberty. That is the greatest danger that confronts America and the world today. Another war to save the world for democracy will mean the destruction of the democratic way of life in the country where its chances of survival are best. Dictatorship is hateful, and for precisely that reason we must beware lest undisciplined, irresponsible denunciation of dictators becomes the instrument of our own enslavement.

COMPOUND INTEREST.

Nineteen hundred fourteen was a landmark in government finance. In that year for the first time since 1865 the expenditures ran over the billion dollar mark, 19 millions over, to be exact. In all the preceding years, with the single exception of 1865, all that was considered to be a proper function of the government by congress and the President could be paid for with less than a billion dollars.

More than a quarter of the billion 19 million dollars paid out by the treasury department in 1914 was for the postal service, which more than earned its keep that year. In it was 208 millions for the army, the biggest military expense the country had been put to since the Spanish war. There was an item of 140 millions for the navy, a record. One hundred seventy-three millions was for pensions, the year before having seen the peak of the payments to old soldiers. There were nearly maximum payments on account of the Indians, and the forests and public parks. The cost of maintaining the regular governmental establishment, the cabinet departments, congress, the courts, and the many commissions was 170 million dollars. The widespread demand for efficiency and economy in government which swept the country after about 1909 had resulted in a slight reduction below the peak.

Down to 1914, then, a billion dollars was the maximum cost of all the services wanted of the government by 95 million people. We now have 130 million inhabitants. The expenditures are up to 9½ billions. Even more significant than this is the fact that the expenditures to the extent of nearly half come out of borrowed money. And the interest on the borrowed money alone this year will amount to a billion dollars. It is going up all the time and was 926 million dollars last year. Thus the dead weight of past extravagance, the mere cost of carrying the debt is as great as the total cost of the national government in 1914, the first peacetime year in which expenditures ran over the billion dollar mark.

The cost of the money the government has borrowed would be even greater but for the fact that a considerable part of it consists of short term loans which are being renewed for periods as short as ninety-one days. As the government has frightened commercial houses from borrowing, the banks, having no other use for their funds, take the government paper for as little as 1/10 of 1 per cent.

When bankers found it profitable to compete for deposits they used to teach the lesson of compound interest in their advertisments. A few dollars deposited in the bank each week would, by compounding the interest, result in the accumulation of an astounding sum in a very short time. Interest now is being compounded on the national debt. Each week a little more is being added to the obligation to be paid in the future. That fresh increment of principal together with the interest on past deficits is added to what the nation owes and on which the compounding principle continues to operate.

A few years ago the government's expenditures passed the limit of the people to pay for it out of the revenue the government could collect. The amount which can be collected is still greater than the interest on the piled up debt. But with interest being steadily compounded and the principal growing from more deficit, how long will it be before the annual interest charge itself will be more than the annual receipts of the government? This is a question we ought all to be thinking about in this landmark year when the interest on the debt goes over the billion dollar mark.

Editorial of the Day

UNCLE SAM, PUBLISHER.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Satirists, when they tire of other targets, are often refreshed by scanning the list of official publications of the United States government. It is an impressive one, but it has its humorous side. Solemn titles dealing with trivial subjects form the basis of a good many quips concerning the unbelievable scope of governmental concerns. Entirely apart from that semi-humorous approach, however, the statistical record, as recently presented, shows a number of interesting facts. The public printer at Washington reports that the sale of government documents reached a new high for 1938, receipts amounting to almost $846,000.

More than 11½ million copies of various publications were sold, ranging from such established best sellers as "Infant Care" to scientific documents for which there is a comparatively small demand. Free publications are not as generously distributed as they once were, since limitations have been placed upon appropriations. Public Printer Giegengack believes government publications would achieve wider sales if people knew more about them.

The $800,000 sale of public documents was just a drop in the bucket compared with the printing bills where outlays had no corresponding receipts. Government departments, congress and federal agencies paid nearly $18,000,000 for printing in 1936. The printing bill for congress alone totaled $3,108,000, including the Congressional Record.

The record shows that during the last fiscal year the government printing office printed more than 117,000,000 individual documents for congress, the executive departments, and independent government agencies. Agriculture, as always, led the list. If the efficacy of farm aid were gauged by paper and printer's ink alone agricultural problems ought to be pretty well settled by now. Heading the governmental publications list last year were the department of agriculture and the AAA, with more than 24,000,000 items each. In the numerous rôles which ubiquitous Uncle Sam has assumed that of publisher is by no means least.

SAVED.

The bright young pupil looked long and thoughtfully at the second examination question, which read: "State the number of tons of coal shipped out of the United States in any given year." Then his brow cleared and he wrote:

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

ROBINS ALWAYS COME BACK.

The people with whom we associate and talk in our wide-eyed, innocent way always laugh at our First Robin. We tell them that he or his wife or their children, or all of them, come back to the same place year after year. We base this belief on the fact that for seven years, or six out of the seven, we have found our First Robin at the same address on the same street, pecking at the same lawn, and maybe, although this is open to doubt, eating the same worm.

Later in the spring this notorious First Robin will build his [or her] nest in the same place, although where we can't say, because this is not a tree robin, but a gutter or eaves roosting or roof dwelling robin. But we will know there is a nest close at hand, because we will find the young birds on the ground.

All of this causes our highly sophisticated, super-educated friends, who wouldn't know a robin from a starling at 100 feet, to say in their learned manner of speech, "Nuts!"

Very well; laugh, clowns, laugh. But here is some information that may cause you to choke it down to a hysterical giggle.

Naturalists who have spent their lives studying birds and their habits have determined, by close scientific observation, that a robin's normal life is seven years. Furthermore, they have learned, by experiments with banded birds, that the avifauna have a strong instinct for small environmental areas, and will return to the same feeding and nesting places.

A pair of blue jays was trapped, banded, carried hundreds of miles away in an airplane, and then released. A few days later they were recaptured in the location where they were banded, and by the same trap.

A family of cowbirds, male, female, and three young ones, was banded in the fall before migration. The next spring they were caught again in the same trap—all five of them.

If you are still skeptical about our First Robin, ask Bob Becker.

PALE PETALS IN THE SPRING.

You are long gone, my dear, and now I smile
For after all you never really knew
How much I cared. But even all this while Delights remain that once we shared, we two.
Deep in my heart I know that I still live
Through hazy days and days of quiet snow,
Wrapped in the comradeship that books can give
By firelight's warmth, but when the far winds blow
I shall recall the stirring of a tree,
And homeward winging birds across the sky,
And I shall hear again the melody
That singing stars repeat at dusk; and I
Shall never see pale petals in the spring
Without a sweet stab of remembering.

Snow-Shoe: Okay, Vacuum, from here on in its a fight to the last ditch an I pity the poor ditch that gets you. What a boob I was to offer you the hand-clasp of friendship. Guess I'm lucky at that, chances are you wood of come out of the grip with my ring and rist watch an dont think I'm gonna give you another chanst. If we meet again it wont be a "Pipe of Peace"—it will be a "Piece of Pipe."

The least he cood do wood be to mail me the ticket and let me get it out myself. Your lantern jawed sister Elviry took a bath an 3 towels at our house week ago Saturday, she phoned today an asked if we found her ring on the wash-stand, juss tell her it wasn't there, later we found it, it was all around the inside of the tub. If those kids of yourn don't stay out of our backyard I'm gonna break their necks, you shood see the color of our dirt after they left. What wood that frau of yours do to you if I tole her about the 2 blondes you had out last Saturday night. I wish I had time enough to extol the splendid virtues of your dear brother's family but right now I'm in the midst of preparing my income tax, several of the lawyers an 3 of the auditors cant agree on how much I shood claim I gave to charities. All I can remember is my long underwear an the plush cap I gave to you, if you can remember anything else please phone me as it might help getting me into the lower brackets. Guess your still better off than me. Duke Bakrak.

SONNET FOR BAD SAMARITANS.

Not bitter, no. Sometimes I find that queer,
For I had walked in darkness for so long,
Companioned by despair, bedded with fear,
Crying to God for grace to make me strong;
And then to find the hundred that I knew
When I was gay and so much fun to know
Gone. I learned the cynic's words were true—
That I was rich to have my gallant few
To fight with me the battle against hell,
Where others fought alone and, lonely, fell.
I found new meaning in the words I read,
The tragic line that long ago was said,
The words He spoke. O, all you who forgot—
"For I was sick and ye visited me not."

GOUT AND ITS ANTICS.

THERE is every reason why we should pay some attention not only to food but to what happens to it after it is eaten. If the digestive apparatus feels inclined to do so, it may alter its behavior—much to our annoyance. In other words, the final products of the dissolving process may affect well being just as positively as though a poison had been taken.

Gout, or—as it was formerly called—podagra, is one of the maladies that may appear when we consume large quantities of nitrogen-containing edibles. But the body demands protein and we must use it. The desirable situation is that in which this element is not converted into an overplus of uric acid or—if it is—that the excess shall be excreted promptly. We recognize the beginnings of the trouble through finding too much of this substance in the circulation, which means that soon it may make itself known by deposits of urate crystals in or about a joint.

In ye olden tyme it was thought that the typical sufferer was the port wine-drinking country gentleman. While alcohol may be a factor, only a relatively small proportion of our gouty victims are found to be addicted. In a series of cases reported recently, 25 per cent did not indulge at all. On the other hand, there is a definite hereditary tendency and, in some families, the disease can be traced back several generations.

The affliction rarely comes on before the fourth decade of life and—when questioned as to eating habits—many of these patients will indicate a particular fondness for animal foods containing purines such as liver, sweetbreads, kidneys, brains, meats, and meat gravies. The first attack usually strikes at night. No one seems to understand why this is and one of the joints of the great toe is the site selected. A dull ache, of which the individual may be subconsciously aware, may increase in intensity until it becomes unbearable. The distress is described as grinding or crushing.

Toward morning the agony abates somewhat. On examination the part will be swollen, red, and painful. Although a day of fair comfort may be anticipated, the patient should be warned that he may look forward to a night of uneasiness—not as severe, however, as when the disorder made its debut.

As a rule, the fever is not high. In fact, there may be no elevation of temperature whatsoever. While it is true that other areas may become involved, the difficulty may be confined to one toe. With most persons there will be accompanying symptoms of indigestion and—as we would expect—a disposition that is anything but agreeable may manifest itself.

Occasionally, within ten days to two weeks, recovery will be complete. But unless body metabolism is corrected, with proper modification of the diet, the disturbance may return after a few weeks and a chronic condition set in. This may be followed later by chalklike deposits of urates beneath the skin. In some instances, the cuticle will crack and bits of this material may be spooned away. Now and then surgical removal is advisable.

The general plan of treatment consists of adjusting the diet with the temporary omission of all meat and fish. In addition, an earnest effort is made to increase elimination. Although fruits may be eaten generously, the total caloric intake may be reduced—temporarily—as much as 50 per cent. Water drinking is encouraged, as is bathing and moderate exercise. During the acute episode drugs may be given for relief and neocinchophen may be employed. This is not a foolproof preparation and a physician must supervise its administration carefully.

There are many potential seizures which do not come to fruition—resulting in actual swelling and throbbing. The reason is that good excretion hastens the rescue before enough uric acid has piled up in the system to produce a painful effect. We need meat—but not a surplus.

[Send a stamped addressed envelope for list of foods low in purines.]

6 FEET 2 AT 17.

H. R. Z. writes: I am 17 years old and 6 feet 2 inches tall. Could I become shorter? I have been offered many suggestions and thought of a few myself—namely, to jump off a roof and land on my head; eat squash, eat shortening bread, have somebody whack me with a sledge hammer, have a part of my legs cut away by surgery, get a short bed and try to make myself fit. I have eaten lots of squash and haven't cut down an inch. I would like to be 4 inches shorter and am willing to try anything, as my height interferes with my work.

REPLY.

Don't apologize for your stature. Be proud of it. Your pituitary is surely working overtime. Try how you will, there is nothing that can be done. Even your tall story about "shortnin'" bread won't help.

NOT AT ALL.

C. S. writes: I notice that when I stand in a swimming pool, with the water up to my neck, there is a feeling of pressure on my chest and my breathing becomes somewhat difficult. I don't notice this when I am floating or swimming. Does this signify any kind of heart trouble?

REPLY.

Not at all. Your chest muscles are obliged to work against the weight of the water. It has no relation to heart disease. When you float or swim the sensation is not so noticeable. The deeper you go, the greater the pressure.

NOT DANGEROUS BUT ANNOYING.

C. L. writes: I have cysts in the inner corner of the eyes [not the eye itself]. I have had them for a year. Sometimes they open and discharge but do not seem to empty entirely, so they form again. Are they dangerous? Is there any treatment other than surgery?

REPLY.

Cysts are small sacs which are lined with a fine tissue which produces a secretion. Unless the entire structure is removed the sac will refill. They are not dangerous—only annoying.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES.—Probably the worst sufferers from the forcible limitation of imports in Argentina are the users, manufacturers, and assemblers of automobiles and the army of workers employed in the assembly plants.

Automobile imports this year have been limited officially to 30 per cent of the total imported last year, rationed in three month quotas of 7½ per cent. During the first quarter of the year the quota in reality was reduced to 6.44 per cent because of a discount for overimportation during December.

This has brought about a critical situation for importers in general, and especially for those companies which maintain huge assembly plants in Argentina. Of the automobiles imported last year, 87 per cent were assembled in local plants. Many automobile importers are considering shutting down until conditions improve, or of engaging in some other activity.

It is estimated that about 1,500,000 persons earn their living in activities directly or indirectly connected with the automobile industry. Included are plant employés, 700,000 drivers or assistants, repair shop workers, filling station employés, tire plant workers, and others.

The situation is paradoxical, for the country also is losing heavily by the new regulation. In the first place, the government has incurred enormous expenditure in the construction of motor highways and seeks reimbursement through a gasoline tax. The government oil fields, just as Argentine producers of accessories and spare parts are expected to suffer from the decreased importation. In 1937 automobile importers bought 30,000,000 pesos [about $7,000,000] worth of goods. Tire importers bought goods worth 5,000,000 pesos [about $1,150,000] while retailers bought Argentine products valued at the same figure.

The shortage of cars and trucks will become acute shortly, since importers have not been able at any time in the last six years to bring in the quantity needed. At present the price of used cars is rising to the point where the difference between it and the ruling price of new ones is little.

One firm, whose quota for the first three months of this year is 400 vehicles, possesses no less than 365 agencies distributed throughout the republic.

It is calculated that 68 per cent of the selling price of a car consists of money spent in Argentina. Customs duty alone accounts for 57 per cent, and this of course means a direct loss of revenue.

INSURANCE BENEFICIARY.

Chicago, March 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died recently. He was survived by four adult children and his second wife, to whom he had been married a year and a half. There is a fraternal insurance policy which designates my mother as beneficiary. She was his first wife and died in 1933. After naming her as beneficiary the policy reads: "Or such other beneficiary as he shall hereafter nominate as hereinafter provided if him surviving, or if no beneficiary survive him, then to the next of kin to the members to the fourth degree of consanguinity, except if there be a widow [or widower] to such widow [or widower]."

1. We feel that as natural heirs of the beneficiary named on the policy that we have a rightful claim to it.
2. Also, that the clause "except if there be a widow . . ." does not really apply since the policy was actually made out to the wife, i. e., the first wife.
3. The secretary of the local branch of the society feels that we are the rightful claimants, but the main office does not seem to know what the contract provides. We settled amicably with the widow.
4. Subsequent to this settlement additional claims were made upon the estate and we had to satisfy them.
5. Can we request that the insurance settlement be regarded as making up our deficiency or loss?
6. Are there any court precedents on cases of this type?
7. Does the insurance settlement go into the estate of the beneficiary or into the estate of the deceased? R. R.

1. If the named beneficiary did not survive him then the wording of the policy in favor of the widow would seem to control.
2. We do not understand your point.
3. He is in a better position to advise you than we are.
4. The question whether the settlement was subject to such developments would depend on the wording of the settlement agreement.
5. Not necessarily.
6. You are not likely to find any cases exactly in point.
7. The policy states that it shall go to the widow, and we see no reason why that wording should not control.

VALID GIFT.

Joliet, Ill., March 13—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. and Mrs. J. own real estate valued at about $12,000. They have two married daughters and a son. The son has caused them much worry and they want to leave this property to the two daughters. The real estate is in Mrs. J.'s name.

1. Can she and her husband deed this property to the two daughters and make the deed valid only at their death?
2. Would a joint will be better or [3] joint tenancy?
4. They want to be sure the girls get this property.
5. Is it necessary to leave anything to the son if a will is drawn?
6. Is it legal for the attorney who draws the will to sign as a witness?

J. A.

1. Yes, in the sense that they could now execute and deliver a deed, retaining to themselves a life estate but giving to their daughters the remainder after the life estate, but this would give the daughters a salable interest now. The proper instrument where the present owner wishes to retain the power to change his mind would be a will.
2. This would be the proper instrument if they wish the entire arrangement to be revocable until their death.
3. This would give the advantage of avoiding probate, but the disadvantage of not being revocable.
4. The best insurance on this point would be to employ an attorney.
5. No.
6. Yes, if he is not a beneficiary.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

La Crosse, Wis., March 16.—For the last forty years I have been a reasonably steady reader of your paper—barring the 1912 period when you wandered off on the Bull Moose reservation—so it seems likely you may consider my complaint, the basis of which is revealed in the enclosed clippings. The United States Leather company deals in lether. There is the absurdity of this attack of spelling reform, which I suppose is what ails you. The wave of reform subsided long ago and yet you keep on using these misspelled words to the discomfort of most of your readers. It doesn't seem like reform to us, you know, but just plain bad spelling, and when we realize that you are doing it for the purpose of reforming us into bad spelling we begin to think you need some good advice.

Your readers are not going to be reformed and it is high time you ceased to irritate them with this continuous procession of misspelled words.

Is there any hope of relief?

THE JURY THOUGHT SO.

Chicago, March 14.—Will the men who arrested Harold Wilkinson for cutting hair without a license please call for me as soon as possible? I cut my own toe nails without a license. I shave twice daily without a license. Also come and get my wife. She removes calluses without a medical license, curls her own hair without a license, and washes windows without a license.

Every person who allows this outrage to pass unchallenged is himself driving a death blow at personal liberty in America.

Harold Wilkinson's case is your test. If he suffers in any way from the charges brought by the Aurora Barbers' association then it is but another step until you will some day be arrested for breathing without a license. Don't you think Wilkinson's case is an example of going to extremes—or don't you think?

SUGGESTION TO THE D. A. R.

Chicago, March 14.—The D. A. R. and all other Americans should be proud of the fact that the world's greatest contralto is an American whom kings and queens have honored. Her ancestors, like those of the "daughters," gave their lives in the cause of liberty. In fact, one, Crispus Attucks, was the first to fall in the revolution.

It would be most fitting [now that their attention has been drawn to the injustice of it] that this organization reverse its policy and put into practice the principles of the constitution for which their hall is named.

MRS. [U. GRANT] ELEANOR DAILEY.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Chicago, March 13.—What has become of the civil service bill for the Municipal court clerks and bailiffs? This bill was recommended by Municipal Court Clerk Joseph L. Gill and Bailif Albert J. Horan as a means of taking these two offices out of politics. The bill was strongly supported by Judge Thomas Greene and the bar association. It was to be submitted to the first session of the legislature. Were these men kidding the public or are they sincere in their promises? J. G.

AGE OF COMMANDERS.

Chicago, March 13.—I have been reading your editorials regarding the age of army officers, but the argument has another side and that is that a good many famous generals have been well advanced in years when they gave remarkably good service. Permit me to mention a few instances. Marshal Saxe was 50 when he won the battle of Fontenoy. Count Montecuculli was 65 when he opposed Turenne on the Rhine and outmaneuvered him, and Turenne was only a few years younger. In the wars of the Fronde when Turenne opposed Prince Conde, Turenne had all the best of it. Suvoroff was 70 when Czar Paul recalled him to take command in Italy and he drove the French out of northern Italy. Von Moltke was 70 when the Franco-Prussian war broke out. Gen. Lee was 55 when he was given command of the army of northern Virginia, and in the world war both Hindenburg and Mackensen were close to 70 when the war broke out. This shows that you cannot really put any definite age limit. It all depends on the man himself.

Permit me also to compliment you on the really fine map of Africa in yesterday's Tribune. It was a beauty and a credit to your paper. As soon as things get settled I hope to see a similar map of changed Europe and Asia.

JOHN A. MILLER.

FORECLOSED.

Chicago, March 14.—Can any one inform us why the HOLC can foreclose on a fifteen year mortgage after four years when, instead of the good times promised four years ago, we have had four years of exceedingly depressed depression? We have had no chance as yet to earn the money, but hope in another eleven years left on the mortgage to pay up if they will only let us.

ANOTHER ONE.

PUN FOR THE DAY.

Beloit, Wis., March 15.—I wonder why congress or any one in the United States is worrying about adding new destroyers to our army and navy when we have the world's greatest destroyer down at Washington at this time.

LEE W. MACHIA.

You've hit your inner stride

....when you regain healthy per-i-stal-sis

Your step has vitality, you face work and play with equal drive, once you hit your inner stride!

This inner stride is a steady, contracting and expanding motion of the intestines known as per-i-stal-sis. When it keeps up regularly, you feel free. When it slows down, you have that constipated feeling.

Before healthy peristalsis can be restored, you may need a gentle but thorough flushing out, so that accumulated waste is cleared away. This is the time to think of Eno!

How fluid-action aids

Eno, taken in water on arising, has this effect: it brings moisture from other parts of the body to the intestines where fluid is needed. This fluid-action... together with a mild stimulation... flushes out waste, gives welcome relief.

Once you eliminate freely, normal peristalsis has a chance to start again. You can gradually get back to schedule—hit your inner stride!

Eno alkalizes, too

ILLINOIS WASTES RELIEF MILLIONS, SURVEY SHOWS

Politics, Incompetence Blamed for Misrule.

near the supervisor's brother. This family had no WPA job and no income. It received $20 a month to meet all its needs. Another family of eight also received $20 a month.

There are some rough and ready coal miners in Christian county. One township supervisor in the county thought he had pretty solid control of the relief situation.

This man had a special pocket in his vest. An automatic pistol just fitted in the pocket. He carried a blackjack in his hip pocket and had a club behind his chair. For reserve he had a shotgun in the back room of his relief offices.

Men who know how to operate a relief office do not approve of such an arsenal, or of any outward display of force. They said that the relief administrator who invites trouble is sure to get it in many downstate areas.

With a Big Club.

The case was cited of another supervisor who kept a large club on his desk. The supervisor wanted everybody to know he was boss.

One day a reliefer came in demanding more relief. When he didn't get it he got to the club ahead of the relief administrator, and the administrator went to the hospital.

In one of the commission government counties a deputy sherif remained in the office for two years. Another relief man in the area said he thought this was improper.

"Having a deputy or a gun around announces that you are looking for trouble," this man said. "You can tell whether there is going to be any trouble and prepare for it. But stunts like that just cause trouble."

Granite City Office Studied.

Instances of relief maladministration range from examples such as these to the situation in Granite City. This is one of three industrial cities a few miles east of St. Louis, Mo.

Granite City is an example of what has happened in other parts of the state. The IERC has gone in, cleaned up the relief rolls, and moved on to the next trouble spot. The township that was left in a clean condition, with a basis for remaining that way, has slipped back into its old ways.

The Granite City relief office is now in a store a block from the center of town. A high wire fence extends across the front of the store just inside the front door. Dejected looking reliefers wait at this fence. Semi-literate notices are posted on the wall of the store.

Finally a woman comes from the back part of the store, which is cut up into small rooms by temporary partitions. She shoves slips of paper—apparently orders for groceries—through the screen to some of the reliefers. They turn and shuffle out.

Nearly Half of Roll Fraudulent.

The IERC staf investigated the Granite City office early in 1938. Investigators found that nearly half the township's relief roll was fraudulent. The commission staf recommended that 573 of the 1,429 cases on the rolls be closed. Granite City relief authorities closed an additional 173 cases during the time the review was being made. [A case is an individual or a group, related or nonrelated, which is being given relief as a unit.]

After its survey the IERC staf, in addition to recommending that relief be stopped in half the cases, proposed several changes in relief administration.

The IERC staf set up complete records on all the cases it investigated and turned these over to the Granite City authorities. But, a reliable source said, the township authorities have failed to carry out the recommendation that these records be kept up to date. In many instances, this source said, no entries have been made in the records since the IERC investigation.

Other recommendations dealt with details of administration that permitted better control over those getting relief. Some of these have been followed in part and others have been disregarded.

At the time of the IERC investigation it was determined that a staf of ten competent persons could administer the relief adequately. There are thirteen on the staf now and local authorities say most of them are incompetent.

Brother on Relief Staf.

Louis Romann is the township supervisor and overseer of the poor. His brother, Edward, is a member of his staf. Romann is said to have at least one other relative on the staf.

Guy Pitchford, Louis Romann's executive chief, is known to be a former county chairman for the Illinois Workers' alliance. [This is an organization designed to demand more for reliefers.] Robert Ingraham, another member of the staf, is a former chairman of the alliance's grievance committee.

Persons who know the local relief situation say that the rolls are overloaded again—perhaps as much as when the IERC made its investigation a year ago. There were authoritative reports in Granite City that the IERC will take some action on the situation there before another month has passed.

While the IERC staf is competent, it is relatively small. In a year's time, because of the limits of staf and money, it has been able to conduct only a score of investigations among the hundreds of state units.

Other examples of how the work of the IERC staf has gone for nothing will be given in subsequent articles. In some cases the work has saved money and is continuing to save money for taxpayers.

SEX FIEND KILLER SHUNNED PLAY TO HATCH CRIMES

Grieving Mother Tells of His Silent Brooding.

"He's a good boy, he couldn't do these terrible things," sob his parents.

"Sammie?" muse the neighbors. "Well, he was sort of quiet but a little peculiar—he was always playing games with little children."

Hryciuk is the hulking youth who confessed Saturday to slaying two women and committing innumerable sex crimes in the last two years. Indictments on one or more of the rape charges will be sought against him tomorrow by Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Freedman.

Mother Refuses to Believe It.

Although Sam, who is 19 years old, made his admissions readily and in a bored manner to Capt. Harry O'Connell of the North avenue station, his mother, Mrs. Anna Hryciuk, yesterday refused to believe her son actually committed the crimes.

"Not my Sam," she wailed. "He's a good boy. Maybe he is slow up here"—she tapped her forehead—"maybe he is clumsy. But he's a good boy."

Sam, she said, always preferred to be "left alone." In the thirteen years the family has lived at 2621 Potomac avenue, he acquired no friends his own age.

Since he left Von Humboldt school two years ago, he brooded about the house, often expressing a vague desire to enroll in the civilian conservation corps. He filled out an application recently.

Unlike other adolescents, Sam was not interested in clubs or athletics, Mrs. Hryciuk said. He read very little, mostly newspaper comics and joke books. Occasionally he was given money by his father, John, a former WPA worker. Other spending money he obtained by robbing his attack victims, he admitted.

Called "Dummy" by Boys His Age.

The Hryciuk family has six canaries in their home. Each day, according to his mother, Sam would feed the birds. He also was fond of the family dog, Topsy. "He was good to his young brother, Eddie, too," said Mrs. Hryciuk. The younger brother is 10 years old.

When he did go outside, Sam usually was shunned by those of his own age. Some called him "Dummy." He played tag or marbles with children six and seven years his junior. Sometimes he bought them candy.

Sam was arrested last Tuesday night after he seized Miss Eleanor Cibik in front of her home at 2518 Iowa street. Her screams aroused her brother, Charles, who held Hryciuk until police arrived. Hryciuk at first admitted several rapes to Sergts. Bernard Reilly and John Roche, then confessed slaying Mrs. Bertha De Meyer, 67 years old, a recluse found beaten to death in her home at 1657 North Troy street in November, 1937, and Mrs. Caroline Schenke, 37 years old, 2856 North Harding avenue, who was beaten fatally in the rear of 2709 North Kildare avenue a month earlier.

U. S. SITS IN ON WORLD PARLEY TO CUT DOWN RAILROAD WORK DAY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, March 19.—Fourteen countries, including the United States, will be represented at the special preparatory conference on the reduction of hours of work on railroads, convoked by the International Labor organization and opening here tomorrow. It is expected the talks will last about ten days.

The United States representatives are Otto Beyer of the national mediation board at Washington, for the government; E. J. McClees, executive secretary of the bureau of information of the eastern railways, New York, for the employers, and J. A. Phillips, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., for the workers.

The preparatory conference will discuss possible bases for international regulations.

Hold Woman to Grand Jury in Kankakee Extortion Case

Mrs. Grace Fink, 48 years old, seized in a south side rooming house Saturday on a warant charging blackmail and extortion of $800, waived preliminary hearing in Kankakee yesterday. Her bond was set at $1,000, which she was unable to raise. The complainant is George Huse, 60, former treasurer and manager of the Kankakee Water company.

QUELL RIOTING AT STAGE UNION LOCAL MEETING

Hollywood, Cal., March 19.—(AP)—Half a dozen fist fights broke out on the floor of a massmeeting of local 37 of the International Alliances of Theatrical and Stage Employés at the American Legion stadium here today, called to consider seizure of its offices by international union officers. Police armed with night sticks quickly quelled the fighting.

A. Brigham Rose, attorney for the local officers, told the gathering that the local was fighting to keep the international officers from seizing its $100,000 cash reserves and restoring "the 2 per cent assessment racket which already has milked studio workers of $3,000,000 for the enrichment of international officials and their henchmen."

Control of the local, composed of 6,000 film studio technicians, was taken over last Monday by Frank Strickling and John Gatelee, international executives. Explaining the move, Gatelee declared the local was "honeycombed with communists."

Woman Unable to Recall Crash That Crushed Skull

A woman who was found unconscious from a skull fracture at Wrightwood avenue and Halsted street Saturday night identified herself in the County hospital yesterday as Mrs. Marian Yanez, 58 years old, 2519 Lincoln avenue. She said that she did not know how she was injured. She was reported improving.

3 North Shore Young Persons' Betrothals Told

BY JUDITH CASS.

THREE interesting engagement announcements are being made this morning, that of Miss Nancy Haines Hanford of New York to Edward Webster Scott of Hubbard Woods; that of Miss Elsie Chatterton Earle of Winnetka to Dr. Robert Barrett Lawson of Rochester, N. Y., and that of Miss Kathleen Bradley Calkins of Bannockburn to John W. Sample of Chicago.

Mr. Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Scott of Hubbard Woods and Chicago, is in New York visiting his fiancée and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Munn Hanford of 70 East 96th street. Mr. and Mrs. Scott were not in New York for the announcement party yesterday for they are enjoying a vacation in Chandler, Ariz.

The wedding is planned for June, the same month in which Miss Hanford's older sister, Miss Sara Crosby Hanford, will be married to Dr. Charles Fyfe Stewart. The Hanfords have another daughter, Mrs. William Benedict Johnson of Far Hills, N. J.

Bride-to-Be Descended from Early American Stock.

Miss Nancy Hanford was graduated from Miss Hewitt s in New York last June and now is a student in Finch Junior college. She is a granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral and Mrs. Franklin Hanford, and a great-granddaughter of Alban Jasper Conant, American portrait painter of the last century. She is a direct descendant of William Bradford, governor of Plymouth colony, and of Roger Conant, a founder of Salem, Mass.

Mr. Scott prepared for Princeton at Hotchkiss. He was a member of Tiger Inn and manager of the hocky team at Princeton, where he was graduated in 1937. He now is studying at the University of Chicago medical school. He is a grandson of Mrs. Robert Cluett, of the late Dr. Edward H. Webster, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Edwin Scott of Pasadena. He is a brother of Mrs. Frank Langdon Hubbard of Grosse Point, Mich.; Mrs. Albert Keep of Sheffield, Mass., and Frederick H. Scott Jr. of Chicago.

Calkins-Sample Wedding Scheduled for May 20.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwin Earle of Winnetka announced the engagement of their daughter, Elsie Chatterton, to be married to Dr. Robert Barrett Lawson, to a few friends at a dinner at their home in Tower road last night.

Mrs. Raymond Mott Calkins of Bannockburn announced the engagement of her daughter, Kathleen Bradley, to John W. Sample at a small tea at her home in the afternoon. Only young people were invited because Mr. Sample's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Sample of Lutesville, Mo., were not here for the party.

They will be here, however, for the wedding on May 20. Miss Calkins is a graduate of Miss Hall's in Pittsfield, Mass., and the Finch school in New York. Mr Sample, who is in business in Chicago, attended Cape Girardeau college in Missouri.

Miss Earle and Dr. Lawson Choose June Wedding Day.

Miss Earle, who is on the faculty of Wells college in Aurora, N. Y., and Dr. Lawson, who is in the department of pediatrics at the University of Rochester and the Strong Memorial hospital in Rochester, arrived here Saturday night to spend a week with the Earles. They plan to be married in June.

Miss Earle was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school in 1934 and last June received her B. A. degree from Sarah Lawrence college in Bronxville, N. Y. She made her debut in the fall of 1935. Dr. Lawson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Elsworth Lawson of Foxboro, Mass., was graduated from Harvard college in Cambridge in 1932 and from the Harvard medical school in 1936.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, who were married last week in Pinehurst, N. C., arrived in Chicago Saturday. Their stay will be brief, however, for they are leaving tomorrow for a three week wedding trip to

O. K. or Okeh?

A dark eyed visitor from Montivideo was inquiring into the origin of the phrase O. K., and repeated a tale she had heard. A man checking the number of bottles in some cases of Irish whisky wrote on each case after checking the contents: "O. K." Asked what it stood for, he said, "All korrect."

That evening, perusing Edith Bolling Wilson's My Memoir, we read that President Wilson, a stickler for the use of the right word, was in the habit of designating approval of documents by writing "Okeh. W. W." on the margin. Asked why he did not use "O. K.", he answered, "Because it is wrong." He suggested the inquirer look up "okeh" in the dictionary. It is, according to Webster, a Choctaw word meaning It is so and not otherwise.

Good Morning!

The mantle of Charlie Chan, which the late Warner Oland wore so long and with such an air, has fallen on the shoulders of Sidney Toler—for a long time one of the screen's most capable cast players. He carries it easily and will, I think, prove a worthy successor to Mr. Oland, whom we all liked so much as the Chinese detective.

This time Chan, joyously anticipating the birth of his first grandchild, is taken from the bosom of his large family to solve the mystery surrounding a murder which has occurred on board a ship anchored off Honolulu.

Before Chan arrives on the scene he is preceded there by his No. 2 and No. 5 sons, both of whom are ambitious to be detectives just like papa. No. 1 son, Lee—whom you saw so often with Mr. Oland—is, you learn, now away attending art school.

The killer is, of course, apprehended in due time and a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars, thought to be missing, given back into the custody from which it had been removed.

You're rather bright, I think, if you guess the identity of the slayer before you're supposed to.

The picture has lots of action and some suspense. The players are able—though you do get a bit weary of the buttings-in and exuberances of No. 2 son, Sen Yung.

See you tomorrow.

New Pastor's Two Brothers and Uncle Aid in Installation

The Rev. Joseph Prusinski, brother of Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony Prusinski, yesterday became pastor of St. John Cantius Catholic church, 823 North Carpenter street. He celebrated first high mass as the new pastor of the church yesterday morning, assisted by two other brothers. These were the Rev. Sigismund Prusinski of St. Stanislaus Kostka church, Noble and Evergreen streets, and the Rev. Leonard Prusinski of St. Stanislaus Bishop and Martyr church, 2318 North Lorel avenue. An uncle of the new pastor, the Rev. Casimir Guziel, C. R., preached the sermon.

The Housewife

Many women prefer attractive place mats to tablecloths. The newest idea is a charming mat that never has to take a trip to the laundry, for the printed nainsook of which it is made is laminated with a cellulose acetate film. To clean it you simply wipe it off with a damp cloth. It will never fade, whether you choose it in plain solid colors or in the pretty flowered pattern available.

The protective film gives the material a gloss. This sheen will withstand 150 degrees of heat, so ordinarily hot plates won't hurt it. The mat will not chip, peel, or crack, nor will it become brittle. Because of its waterproof and stainproof qualities it makes an excellent tray cloth for a youngster's highchair.

These place mats come in sets of six and eight and are not at all expensive.

Danger—Columnist at Work

Hollywood, Cal., March 19.—For the last four weeks I have been on relief, the relief being provided by twenty-eight guest columnists, and the noises you hear are the vivid vibrations of vim, vigor, and vehement vitality acquired on a vagabond's vacation. This may be verbose, but it is veracious. Mentally I've always been a bit on the dull side, but physically your correspondent is sharp as a tack as he returns to Bagdad-on-the-Pacific.

What a vacation! Phoenix, Tucson, Dallas, Fort Worth, Nashville, Atlanta, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Monterey, and Miami Beach, particularly Miami Beach. If you ever go to Miami Beach, wangle an invitation from the Jerry Bradys. They are the kind of hosts who arise early in the morning to scan the southern skies anxiously for a threat of rain, and apologize at the breakfast table for a wisp of cloud sailing in from the everglades. So resolutely did Bettina Brown Brady concentrate on the weather that the sun streamed down for two solid weeks, and at night a yellow moon pillowed its golden head on clouds incredibly white in a sky incredibly blue. If I could afford it, I'd be an all-American bum and I'd live at the Bradys'. And how Matilda fries a chicken!

Returning from the Atlantic to the Pacific, your reporter finds that all is comparatively quiet on the western front. There is one radical change. Sunset boulevard is crowded with Indians because the studios now have forsaken the airplane formula in favor of westerns. Once upon a time when Indians got off the reservation it meant massacres, but now it means only double features. "Stand Up and Fight," "Let Freedom Ring," "Dodge City," "Stage Coach," "The Oklahoma Kid," and "Union Pacific" are just a few of the cowboy and Indian epics.

Apart from the Indian campfires lighting the Los Angeles skies, there are other changes. Squaw Hedy Lamarr has been withdrawn from circulation, which is a pity. . . . Squaw Ann Sheridan has been voted the girl with the most "oomph." Elinor Glyn started off by coining "it" to replace vampire, Jean Harlow carried it a step forward by offering "platinum blonde," which suggested "S. A." for sex appeal. Then we had "glamor" and now its "oomph." This has been overworked so the column opens its portals to suggestions for a new one word or two word description of femme charms, a phrase to tag a composite picture of Lamarr, Dietrich, Crawford, Sheridan, and other cinema streamliners. For the phrase that I consider the best a prize of autographed pictures of any two Hollywood stars the winner wants. Get to work. All letters must be mailed not later than midnight of March 27.

In my absence Spencer Tracy and Bette Davis won the academy awards, and Tracy indulged in a nice gesture by sending his statuette to Father Flanagan. This may be an embarrassing precedent. If Cagney wins next year's award for "John Dillinger" it wouldn't be fair to dig him up just for that. Just as we learned via celluloid that Jesse James was good to his folks, except those who were unwary enough to turn their backs, so we shall learn in all probability that Dillinger was a cute collegian who murdered people as part of a civic betterment campaign.

Not, mind you, that I've any right to become highly moral or indignant about this sort of thing, because shortly you will see my wizened visage leering at you from the screen with Barton MacLane and Tom Brown in "Big Town Czar." Producer Ken Goldsmith and Director Arthur Lubin had a swell picture until Sullivan arrived, and it is a tribute to Barton MacLane's strength of character that he did not turn his gun on me. Some time back, and in an unguarded moment, I remarked that Jimmy Fidler, Louella, and "Stinky" would need a photo finish to separate them as screen menaces. Well, the sins of yesterday's paper shall be upon the deponent, but if your children must see gangsters shot down, let them meet the underworld in the right way at this one.

Making the picture was a disillusionment in one sense. I was convinced that trick photography had progressed to a point where all you had to do was to expose yourself to it. The completed product then, by some magic or hocus-pocus, would reveal you looking like Clark Gable. To my horror, this is not true. Not that Cameraman Elwood Bredell didn't make a herculean effort. He lighted my slaphappy features from every angle, but they always came cut the same. "If you had a best side," he said, "I could photograph the best side, but you have no best side." It never has been summed up so neatly. It was Bredell, perhaps, who looked at thin faced Basil Rathbone through a camera lens and said: "Mr. Rathbone, you are two profiles pasted together."

Well, it's really nice to get back to work again. To those of the Hollywood colony who batted for me, my sincere appreciation for a job that was splendidly done, judging from the letters that have come to this desk. In fact, it was too well done, because quite a few readers have suggested that I go on a permanent vacation and let the stars and celebs continue the column indefinitly. Maybe I'd better wire the Bradys to fix up the front room.

Styles Make Women Ladies Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The spring fashion shows of what's what and new for street, daytime or evening, or town and country life, are going strong. If you want to deliberate [in the presence of a thousand others] upon your coming wardrobe, trot to town and view the parades between gulps of tea and a few nibbles of food.

Such is the way of every fashion addict at the beginning of each fashion season.

If the whirling dervish silhouette intrigues you, you can see them in action during these current showings. If the long romantic basque bodice tops and other lowered waistline effects have you in a quandary as to your own need of something similar in a streamline, this is the time to have an unobstructed view of this fashion from all sides. Here you can plot and plan an entire wardrobe, a get-together of adaptations to suit your own personality, one that will give you the reputation of being a distinctly dressed individual.

Fashion shows present not only clothes, but the very important tricks of accent and how to clash or contrast two or three colors with gayety, wit, and a good bit of daring.

Seeing is believing—the shows will give the proof of the fashion importance of a 20-inch waistline, the return of the hipline, the provocative white flirt of a lingerie petticoat, the coming of cotton to steal any fashion spotlight, skirts with 12 yard widths, the unexpected charm of the shirtwaist and new long sleeves, or the staggering news that lace foams down from hats, and that most of your newest lingerie will look like something Granny boasted about in her handmade trousseau.

The fashion shows of the pre-Easter weeks will prove beyond any argument that we've gone back to being ladies.

College Choir Proves Right to Top Rank

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Augustana college choir of Rock Island, Ill., gave its annual Chicago concert in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Under the magnificent leadership of Henry Veld, one of America's outstanding choral directors, the choir in the last few years has climbed right up to the top.

The singing of these eager and firmly disciplined students is beautifully balanced, constantly agreeable in tone, and precise to the last inflection of rhythm and pitch. It is their good fortune to sing under a director who has withstood the temptation to turn choral singing into empty fireworks. As has always been the case in the past, Mr. Veld maintains in his conducting a particularly happy sense of tempo and a deep feeling for the emotional power of a sustained melodic line.

The program, while not without its trivialities, presented a good array of masterpieces from the 17th, 18th, and 20th centuries.

George Burhop, baritone, who sang at the Beaux Arts salon in the Medinah club, rejoices in as superb a voice as is to be found in all Chicago. Since his training is only partly complete, it was a mistake to list his appearance as a professional debut. Before he achieves the success that is his natural right, he will have to revise his ideas of vocal production considerably. His top tones shatter noticeably, and consequently do not develop driving power. Even his middle voice is somewhat out of focus, so that the impact of his tone is probably not so forceful to an audience as it feels to him.

He also needs to learn a better repertoire. Too many of his songs belong in a musical twilight of semi-classicism which casts a long shadow upon his musical taste.

Jenny May, soprano, shared the program, singing in a fairly smooth style, but with far too much vibrato.

At the Illinois Symphony orchestra concert in the Great Northern theater George Sopkin, 'cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, offered the Chicago première of Dohnanyi's "Concert Piece in F Major." The piece, written in 1905, has been well absent from our programs. It is overlong and overjuicy, and has very little good thematic material in it. Mr. Sopkin's performance, like that of Izler Solomon and his orchestra, was musicianly, competent, and warm. The program also included Prokofieff's "Classical Symphony," Rachmaninoff's "The Isle of the Dead," and the first local performance of Menotti Salta's "Four Characteristic Dances."

Dorothy Crost and Berenice Jacobson, gracious Chicago duo-pianists, played in the Woman's club theater under the auspices of Metropolitan district of Hadassah. A capacity audience applauded their excellent teamwork and their musical enthusiasm. Their playing of Bach—in the only group I heard—needed more simplicity and forthrightness and less attempt to interpret the music subjectively. The Fantasia and Fugue in A minor would also have profited from more discreet pedaling and less of an attempt to force a big sonority from the instruments.

The San Carlo Opera company wound up a successful eleven day engagement at the Auditorium theater last night. Bizet's "Carmen" was the opera, with Carlo Peroni in the conductor's stand and Coe Glade, Leola Turner, Dimitri Onofrei, Mario Cozzi, and Harold Kravitt in principal rôles.

Chicagoans Pay Tribute to Past of Paderewski

BY EDWARD BARRY.

On Dec. 31, 1891, a young Polish pianist with a great head of red-gold hair walked onto the stage of the Auditorium theater to make his first Chicago appearance. Yesterday the wheel came full circle when that same man—bent, gray, and 78—crept slowly across the very same stage.

On that long forgotten New Year's eve Ignace Jan Paderewski was applauded expectantly by people who knew him by reputation and who foresaw his brilliant future on the American concert platform. Yesterday the applause of the 4,450 persons who rose to their feet respectfully when the great pianist emerged constituted a tremendous tribute to his past.

This was the Paderewski whose name, usually revised to "Paderoosky," has been a synonym for "pianist" for nearly five decades. This was the Paderewski who felt the Cossack knout at 3, who became a European celebrity at 28, who was the talk of Chicago when the old Auditorium was new and when most of yesterday's audience was a mere rumor of things to come.

This was the Paderewski who knew Queen Victoria, who hobnobbed with princes and presidents and prime ministers, who brought about the resurrection of Poland and who ruled it during its nervous infant days.

Long before one-tenth of such thoughts had sunk in this man out of another century had seated himself at the piano and begun to play. Without pausing for rest he went through some Haydn variations, the Mozart A minor rondo, and Beethoven's "Appassionato" sonata. After a brief intermission there was a Chopin group, a Schubert impromptu, and the Liszt transcription of "Isolde's Love Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." A considerate audience demanded few bows from this courtly gentleman who scrupulously pulled himself to his feet every time he acknowledged applause. Likewise the encores were few—only a Chopin waltz and a Schubert moment musical—for the man, though game, was obviously not well.

All through the afternoon the audience applauded the great Paderewski of old. Now he merely suggests, or sketches, and allows the imagination of his listeners to clothe the music with flesh and to endow it with breath. An apt rubato or a bit of initial momentum will suddenly bring to the mind's ear the phrase as Paderewski intended it to be—glowing with color, exquisitely shaped, inevitable in its motion from first note to last.

At the end of the recital little Polish girls and boys presented the great pianist with flowers. The audience straggled out, the lights went down, and the Auditorium added Paderewski's last recital to its long past.

The Blind Side

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1939: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Ross Craddock's father, now dead, turned Craddock house into flats and installed his old maid cousins, Mary and Lucy Craddock, in a flat apiece, on either side of the one occupied by Ross. After Mary's death Lucy prepares to leave for a change of scene. Their cousin, Peter Renshaw, is staying in Mary's flat while he settles her estate. Ross orders Lucy to vacate her flat because she objects to his attentions to her foolish young niece, Mavis Grey. Lucy tells Peter she wishes Ross were dead. He advises her to take the trip. Lucy gives her cousin, Lee Fenton, permission to use her flat while she is away. Lee, who is in love with Peter, has just escaped an unpleasant experience with a married man. Rush, the porter, admits Lee. He mutters belligerently against Ross. After Rush, Lee has a time dismissing Mrs. Green, the charwoman, who says she is ill and needs a drink of brandy. That evening Peter prevents Bobby Foster, Mavis' suitor, from making a scene in a cabaret where Mavis is with Ross. Peter is awakened in the night by a crash. He sees Mavis running from Ross' flat and Ross cut and bleeding. Mavis had thrown a decanter at him. Peter lets Mavis stay the rest of the night and he sleeps on a couch. Later he is again awakened and sees Mavis again coming from Ross' flat. She says she went to retrieve her purse. Lee awakens from a nightmare to find her nightgown and foot covered with blood. Her bloody footprints lead from Ross' door. Lee knows she walks in her sleep. In terror she washes away the blood stains and goes to tell Peter. Ross' valet arrives and finds Ross has been shot and killed. He summons the police. An old maid tenant is questioned.

INSTALMENT XVIII.
IMPORTANT EVIDENCE.

"You'd better tell us what you saw," said the inspector dryly.

Miss Bingham's eyes were glittering with excitement.

"Well, there was Mr. Craddock in his doorway with his hand up to his head and blood all over it. And there was Peter Renshaw over by his door, and that girl Mavis Grey with her arms round his neck, crying, and sobbing, and saying, 'O, don't let him touch me!'"

"You say you saw all this. Where were you?"

"Of course, I saw it all! You don't think I would make a thing like that up, I hope! I looked between the bannisters and through the lift shaft. There is only the steel framework when the lift isn't up. And Mr. Renshaw said, 'What have you done to her?' And Mr. Craddock said he hadn't done anything. And he said it was the girl who had hurt him—at least, that is what he meant."

"What did he say?"

"He said, 'I was the one that got hurt.' And he said, 'I've had enough.' And then Mr. Renshaw took that girl into poor Mary Craddock's flat and banged the door."

"Is that all you heard them say? Remember that this is important and you must be as accurate as you can."

"You needn't caution me about being accurate, inspector. Often and often my friends have told me that I have an absolutely photographic memory. Now let me see—he said that girl had hurt him ——"

"I don't think that is quite accurate."

"That is what he meant," said Miss Bingham firmly. "He looked quite dazed, and I'm sure the blood was simply pouring down his face. And I've always said that if a girl leads a man on she has only herself to thank for what happens. What was she doing in his flat at 1 o'clock in the morning? Shameless, I call it—shameless! And then she throws her arms round Peter Renshaw's neck and says, 'Don't let him touch me!'"

"In fact, you gathered that Mr. Craddock had alarmed Miss Grey to such an extent that she threw herself on Mr. Renshaw's potection after striking Mr. Craddock with—well, there's no harm in saying that it must have been the decanter, because we found it broken and there was glass in the wound."

"But that wouldn't have killed him, inspector."

"Mr. Craddock was shot." The inspector's tone was curt. "Now, Miss Bingham, I should like to know how Miss Grey was dressed, if you don't mind."

"Full evening dress, inspector. Silver lamé, and her poor Aunt Mary not dead a month! I don't know what girls are coming to!"

The inspector wiped his brow.

"Well, what happened after Mr. Renshaw and Miss Grey had gone into No. 9?"

"Mr. Craddock went back into his flat."

"And then?"

Miss Bingham hestitated, sniffed slightly, and said:

"I waited to see if that shameless girl was really going to stay."

"How long did you wait?"

"Half an hour. I said to myself, 'I will give her half an hour, and if she doesn't come out then, well, I shall know what to think.' And I did. It was exactly half past one when I put my light out."

"That puts the murder at some time after half past one. After you put your light out did you go to sleep?"

"Not immediately—O, no, I was too much horrified and disgusted. I heard the clock strike two."

"And no sound from down below?"

"Not then."

"What do you mean by not then?"

"Ah! That is where I feel that my evidence is extremely important, because if Mr. Craddock was shot, you must, of course, want to know when the shot was fired."

"Did you hear it?" said the inspector quickly.

Miss Bingham looked at him archly.

"I heard something. But I mustn't say it was a shot. I woke up—I am an extremely light sleeper, and there was something very heavy passing down the road. If the shot was fired at that moment it is very unlikely that any one would have heard it. The vehicle that was passing must have been exceptionally heavy—one of those great brewer's drays, perhaps. And—it is extremely shocking to think of—but would not a person who meant to make a murderous attack on Mr. Craddock be likely to avail himself of just such an opportunity?"

"To say that a thing might happen isn't to say that it did happen," said the inspector tersely. "I'm afraid if that is all you have to tell us——"

"O, but it isn't!" said Miss Bingham. "O, no—not by any means. I don't know whether I went to sleep again or not—I am inclined to think I did, because I have a vague recollection of a dream. I was awakened in a state of great uneasiness. The atmosphere was most menacing. I felt an immediate necessity to investigate. I put on the light and looked at the clock. It was five minutes to three. I slipped on my dressing gown and opened the front door. I was immediately struck by the fact that no light came up from below.

"As I told you before, I had put out the light on my own landing at a little before one, but it is usual for these lights to remain on all night. I could see by looking down the lift shaft that none of the landings were lit. This meant that the lights had been turned out by some one for reasons best known to himself.

"I went down to the turn of the stair, and as I stood there listening I distinctly heard some one move. I heard a door shut, and I heard some one move. And then, just as my eyes were getting accustomed to the darkness, the door of poor Mary Craddock's flat was opened and the light went on in her hall, and there was that girl Mavis Grey coming in from the landing with her dress clutched up in her hand where it was torn, and there was Peter Renshaw in the hall. And they shut the door and I didn't see anything more."

The inspector jerked forward.

Miss Grey was going into the flat? You're sure of that?"

"I am quite sure, inspector."

Miss Bingham hesitated.

"I don't know. He might have been. He was in the hall."

Detective Abbott spoke for the first time. He said in an undertone:

"If they had both been out of the flat, he wouldn't pass her and go in first—I beg your pardon, sir."

The inspector nodded.

"No—that's right. Miss Bingham, you say Miss Grey's dress was torn. Was it torn when you saw her at one o'clock?"

Miss Bingham primmed her mouth.

"It was disgracefully torn—I noticed it at once—she was quite disheveled."

"The first time?"

"O, yes—at one o'clock. I noticed it at once."

The inspector got thankfully to his feet.

"Thank you, Miss Bingham, that will do."

Yesterday was the midway turning point of the Lenten season, known by Catholics as Laetare, or rejoicing Sunday, and by Episcopalians either as Mothering Sunday or Refreshment Sunday. The devotions of the season heighten through next Sunday, which is Passion Sunday, and on through Palm Sunday and Good Friday.

For centuries the fourth Sunday in Lent has been the Mothers' day for many peoples. It is the day when college students, apprentices and others returned home so that the whole family could again attend church together. Chicago Presbyterians devoted Mothering Sunday in many churches to Alma Mater, the white mother of higher education. Twenty-six college presidents or other administrators appeared in as many pulpits throughout the city to tell the story of education under Christian auspices.

These educators will remain in Chicago today when conferences on the church's sesquicentennial drive for 10 million dollars for Presbyterian colleges and foundations will be held at the Palmer House. The sesquicentennial dinner will be held tonight at that hotel when several noted educators will speak.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

An irate husband wrote to us not long ago asking why all beauty authorities don't warn women against dyeing their own hair.

We haven't issued the warning lately because we thought people would be bored at the repetition. To attempt to dye your own hair is the very last word in false economy. You'll make a mess of it surely. You may find a few attempts successful [at least to your own untrained eye], but the cumulative effect will make you wish you'd never entertained the thought.

The application AND the selection of the product call for a special technical knowledge and skill. Not all beauty operators have it and certainly not one person in a million outside the profession has it. It's a case for the experts, conscientious and skilful. You must be prepared to pay a good price for the dyeing applications and for the hair care program that must be followed in between. You're starting something you have to see to the finish and you must let an expert be your guide.

Tailored and Feminine

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Stylists are proving this spring that dresses may be tailored and still feminine. The traditional shirtwaist frocks, for example, are given dressmaker details, and the pattern today is a case in point.

The neckline may be trimmed with a band and bow of contrasting material, or it may have a brief shirtwaist collar. Buttons or a slide fastener may be used down the bodice front. Beneath the shoulder yoke is soft shirring to lend desirable fulness to the waist. The sleeves, which may be plain or cuffed, are puffed at the shoulders. Above the flared skirt is a slim waistline that may have a lether or fabric belt.

All types of silks, cottons, and linens will make up well in this design, the original of which is fashioned of washable silk in a colorful print.

Stye No. 2557 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the short sleeved dress with button closing and contrasting collar and cuffs.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The sprightly spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 15 cents the copy, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY.

Waffles May Be Dessert or Main Course

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The waffle is an accommodating biscuit, as much at home in the dessert course as in the body of a meal. A waffle may be plain, sweetened, spiced or chocolate, it may contain addenda such as bacon, scraps of ham, nuts, cheese or fruit, but a waffle, to be a good waffle, must be crisp in any case.

Waffle batter should be smooth and pourable. A basic recipe such as this one may be varied in fully a dozen ways.

PLAIN WAFFLES.

[About eight.]

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups milk
½ cup melted butter

Sift dry ingredients together. Beat egg yolks and add milk and melted shortening. Stir into dry ingredients, beating the mixture until smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a hot waffle iron. The iron should be hot enough to sizzle when a drop of water is sprinkled on it. Serve with sirup, honey, crushed fruit, or jelly.

WAFFLE VARIATIONS.

HAM OR BACON WAFFLES: Add two or three tablespoons of minced cooked ham or bacon to the batter.

SOUR MILK OR BUTTERMILK WAFFLES: Reduce baking powder to 1½ teaspoons, add ¾ teaspoon baking soda, and substitute sour milk or buttermilk for sweet milk. It may be necessary to use a little more of the buttermilk or sour milk to make a pourable batter.

PECAN WAFFLES: Add a teaspoon of vanilla to the waffle batter and fold in ¾ cup broken pecans. Serve with orange sirup made by boiling together for about eight minutes 1 cup sugar, 6 tablespoons orange juice, 1½ tablespoons light corn sirup, and ½ teaspoon grated orange rind.

FRUIT WAFFLES: Add a tablespoon of sugar to the batter and fold in ⅔ of 1 cup drained dried, canned or fresh fruit. Suggested fruits: Cooked dried apricots, crushed pineapple, blueberries, strawberries, bananas, peaches, dates. Nuts may be added with the fruits if desired.

The sugar in the basic recipe may be omitted entirely. Fine textured dessert waffles may be made with cake flour instead of all-purpose flour. When cake flour is used the liquid should be decreased very slightly.

Gingerbread batter, simple devil's food or spice cake batter may be baked in the waffle iron, too. Such waffles usually are served sprinkled with confectioners' sugar and topped with fruit or whipped cream.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Although duplicate games and tournaments have grown to enormous proportions in the last few years, there still are a great many players to whom this particular form of bridge is either a complete mystery or at least a trifle obscure. Few realize the difference in the philosophy of the two games, rubber bridge and duplicate. In rubber bridge one's own contract is the paramount issue. In duplicate one must not only ponder ways and means to fulfill one's own contract but must at the same time analyze the hand for what might be occurring at other tables. For example, if a player has reached a three no trump contract and, on inspection of the dummy, sees that four hearts or four spades would have been a lay-down, he must not be content to make only nine tricks at no trump. He must go so far as to jeopardize the contract itself in an effort to make an extra trick, so that his 430 or 630 points [according to vulnerability] will outdo the players who selected major suit contracts.

Sometimes, of course, there is no need to jeopardize the contract in order to make an extra trick. Perhaps only good play is needed, as in the following hand:

NORTH
♠ J 7
♦ A 9 4

WEST
♠ Q 8 6 5
♥ Q J 9 4
♦ Q J 7 3 2
♣ None

EAST
♠ 9 4 3 2
♦ K 10 8 5

SOUTH
♠ A K 10
♥ A K 10 2
♣ Q J 9 7 2

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was highly unorthodox, but by no means bad. In fact, it was produced by two nationally known experts. North's one diamond response was chosen as more constructive than a mere club raise and, as will be seen, actually had the value of stopping a diamond lead. South could have bid one heart on the second round, but chose to mask his holding and make the stronger bid of two no trump.

West opened the queen of hearts, the diamond suit having been bid over him. Declarer won and led the queen of clubs. When West showed out [discarding the seven of diamonds] the queen was allowed to ride. East won with the king and returned his fourth best diamond. West's jack was allowed to hold, but a diamond continuation was won with the ace. Now the spade jack was led through East and, when the latter played low, declarer went right up with the ace. A low club to the ace and a club return picked up East's ten spot and declarer cashed his fifth club. West meanwhile had found considerable difficulty in discarding to five rounds of clubs. He had to keep the spade queen guarded and also had to hold the jack and nine of hearts. Thus, after all the clubs were run and declarer was left with the K-10 of spades and the K-10 of hearts, West's holding was the Q-8 of spades and the J-9 of hearts. It was very easy for the declarer to read the situation. He laid down the heart king and threw West in by exiting with the heart ten. West, of course, had to return a spade from the Q-8 up to declarer's K-10.

The play on this hand was merely routine for a good player, but the fact is that the declarer actually would have risked his contract if it had been necessary to take an extra trick. The moment he saw the dummy, his thought was that four hearts undoubtedly would be the usual contract around the room and that, despite the nonbreak in the heart suit, that contract could be fulfilled. Hence a mere three no trump [600 points] would be virtually worthless as against the 620 points that would be scored by those declarers who ended at a four heart contract.

I might also point out that the duck of one diamond was a vital factor in preparing the end position described.

Exercises to Reduce Hips

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

If you want to have the hip and derriere line you admire in the models who display your clothes for you, put yourself on the following exercises:

No. 1: Here's your old friend that has no equal for trimming hips, abdomen, waist, thighs, and legs. Lie flat on your back. Raise the right leg, cross it over the left, and stretch it. Stretch it up to shoulder level if you can. If you can't, just stretch as far as you can. Keep head and shoulders on the ground or floor. Roll over on the hips and repeat with left leg. This is one grand, good exercise, believe one who has been doing it for years.

No. 3: A classic for abdomen and chest and almost all the rest of your body. Lie on back and brace hips against wall. Slide legs upward at right angles to body, derriere as close to baseboard as possible. Arms may be stretched along floor, back of head, or clasped behind neck, whichever you find easiest. Now, while right leg remains stretched, bend left knee toward chest. Return arms to side in a swinging motion, bringing right leg down and stretching left leg up. Continue this sliding motion up and down the wall, alternating legs and continuing arm movement.

No. 4: Particularly for the woman with the too protruding derriere. It's a favorite among models, who have to keep long, lean and flat in that region. Go slowly on this one until you get the technique. But get it and keep at the exercise, and see what you shall see in the way of a trimmer silhouette. Kneel on floor, hands on hips. From kneeling position, drop to floor in sitting position, but drop on one side of your legs, then on other side of legs. Flop back and forth to right and left. When you get the technique, hold hands clasped in front of you and do it some more.

Colorful Bath Rug Is Simple Item to Crochet

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Bathroom rugs may be crocheted to match the shower curtains and general color scheme, thanks to the variety of colors supplied by the ever alert "throwsters." Crocheted of pale green and white carpet warp which is worked double, this bath rug done in a herring bone stitch is a simple and easy-to-make item which is beautiful as well as utilitarian. To create a mottled effect, the green and white may be worked together instead of as bands, as shown in the illustration.

For instructions for crocheting the bath rug, No. X-223, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

PERRY FINALLY WINS A SET, BUT HE LOSES MATCH

Budge Takes 7th in Row in Stadium.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Don Budge, the most recent recruit to professional tennis ranks, continued to show his superiority over the older hands by defeating Fred Perry, three sets to one, last night in the Chicago Stadium. Scores were 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Budge, who succeeded Perry as the world's amateur champion when the Englishman turned professional several years ago, demonstrated how the understudy has surpassed the master. Perry's strokes were executed with grace and polish and perfect form, but it was Budge who put the finishing punch into his shots.

Makes Score 7 to 0.

With every match the California red head is increasing his prestige among the professionals. From his tour with Ellsworth Vines, he emerged the winner by a margin of 22 matches to 17. Now he leads Perry, 7 to 0. The set that Perry took last night was the first he has won out of the 18 played during the present campaign.

The crowd of 4,000 which watched last night's match consisted largely of those who like to watch good tennis regardless of who wins—and they saw plenty of great strokes by both players.

Perry Perks Up.

Finding Perry's style to his liking, Budge raced through the first set. At this stage of the match both were depending on steadiness rather than power—and it was Perry who made the mistakes. When a forcing shot was made it was usually Budge who made it. He ran the score to 3-0 and then to 5-1, before taking the set at 6-2.

In the second set Perry worked the score to 2 all, then faltered and Budge took four games in a row. Perry began hitting crisply in the third, his drives dropping within inches of the baseline and his volleys popping with accuracy and power. After the set was deuced at 5 all, the Englishman won on his service and broke through Budge's to break the Californian's long string of successes.

Budge Takes Charge.

Perry pressed on in the fourth set to run up a 2-0 advantage. Then Budge, turning on full power, won five games in a row. Perry took the next two, but the Californian hammered out the points that won game, set and match on his own service.

The program was opened by a singles match in which Ben Gorchakoff of Los Angeles defeated Walter Senior of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-2.

In the first set of the doubles, Budge and Senior defeated Perry and Gorchakoff, 8-6. The second set was won by Perry and Gorchakoff, 6-2.

Manhattans, Sparta Gain Peel Cup Final

BY OFFSIDE.

The Manhattan Brewers and Sparta reached the Peel cup finals yesterday, the Brewers with a 4 to 0 triumph over the Chicago Kickers and Sparta by beating the Vikings, 3 to 2.

Manhattan took the lead 20 minutes through the first period on a goal by Art Garcia, added another near the close of the half to lead 2 to 0 at the intermission and came through with two more in the final period to eliminate the Kickers.

Sparta had a much more difficult time reaching the finals. The Vikings went on attack at the start and only the brilliant play of Silovsky prevented them from scoring.

Sparta went into the lead after 17 minutes of first period play, Myrnka beating Johannson. The Vikings were back in a tie eight minutes later on Carlson's hard drive, and took the lead as Scott of Sparta, trying to clear, drove the ball into his own net.

Sparta tied the score a short time after the second period had opened on Vlcek's goal from 20 yards, and clinched victory 15 minutes through the half as Myrnka came through with his second goal. Lineups:

WHO SAID OUR SOX CAN'T WIN? BURY SAN DIEGO, 10-2

Appling, McNair, Walker Lead 13 Hit Attack.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., March 19.—The White Sox, who were kicked around by the Cubs and the Angels in their two previous exhibitions, finally got around to showing traces of major league skill today. They made the showing with an emphatic 10 to 2 victory over the local Padres of the Coast league.

It might have been the sight of a profitable crowd of 5,000, or it might have been that the Sox merely decided the time had arrived for some serious effort. They rolled up thirteen hits, one a homer by Pinch Batter Gerald Walker.

Brown Finds Himself.

The one visiting pitcher the Padres were able to solve, and this display was only momentary, was Clint Brown, who was back on the mound for the first time since last May, when his elbow exploded as the preliminary to an operation. The Padres used him as a target for four hits in the opening inning, but he stopped this by fanning a batter with two men on the bases, then proceeded to turn out two excellent innings before retiring from the scene.

Following Brown came Thorton Lee, the lefty, and Jack Knott. During Lee's three inning régime only one Padre reached base. Against Knott's fininging three of the local survived, two on singles and the other on a fumble by Aloysius Bejma.

They Go Right to Work.

The Sox opened their afternoon's chores with a run which resulted from a triple to right by Appling after a pass. The slim lead was altered to a deficit of similar proportions as soon as the Padres enjoyed their first look at Brown. They greeted him with four singles but damage was restricted to two runs. Griffiths opened this blast with a single and the next two batters grounded out to Kuhel. Dalessandro singled and worked his way around to the plate on hits by Detore and McDonald.

The Chicago delegates climbed back into a tie in the second inning. With one out, McNair scratched a single off Neimic's cheek bone and Silvestri walked. McNair stole third and Silvestri stole second. Brown coaxed a pass from Tobin, loading the bases. Then McNair scored while Neimic was throwing out Radcliff.

Another One for Chicago.

As soon as Ward, a Cub alumnus, assumed the Padres' pitching burden in the fourth, the Sox resumed scoring in a mild way. Lee singled to right. Radcliff survived on a fumble by Neimic, Owen rolled into a double play, and Thompson, who had replaced Steinbacher, walked. Appling singled to right and Lee scored. The Sox also jarred Ward a bit in the fifth, Kuhel walking and scoring on McNair's two bagger to the right field fence.

The Sox scored their third run off him and their fifth of the battle when Owen singled to right, moved to second on a pass by Thompson, to third on Appling's long fly, and the rest of the way on a healthy fly to right off Kreevich's bat.

The next run was the work of Walker, prospective left field regular, who appeared as a pinch hitter for Lee in the seventh. He whistled a homer into the left field bleachers.

And Four More.

The Sox got to Humphreys for four tallies in the ninth inning. Schlueter led off with a single and Knott bunted to McDonald, who threw to first base before observing the bag wasn't covered. The comical lapse put Schlueter on third and Knott on second. The bases were loaded with an intentional pass to Radcliff. Singles by Thompson and Appling, along with Owens' sacrifice fly, did the rest.

The Sox and Pirates meet tomorrow in San Bernardino. Ted Lyons, John

When the Going Gets Tough, It's Made to Order for Saccoia

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Some boxers reach the top after a long, hard climb—others get there like a rocket. Vic Saccoia of Detroit has fought only eighteen times—yet he holds one of the eight titles that were sought by 23,000 boxers from twenty-six states in the recent Golden Gloves tournament.

As flyweight champion of the Chicago squad, Saccoia is now training in the Illinois Athletic club in preparation for the intercity bouts with New York's Golden Gloves team in the Stadium a week from Wednesday.

Doesn't Know How He Did It.

You might expect such sudden and spectacular success to turn a youngster's head. But it didn't happen in this case. "I honestly don't know how I did it," he remarked, with a slightly puzzled expression on his face.

He referred to his victories over two Chicago boys, Willie Moon and Al Noto, in the semi-finals and finals respectively. Both of these opponents are strong, fast, hard-hitting fighters with considerable experience. The Detroit youngster didn't let that worry him a bit. He just went in there and fought for all he was worth and in the end he came out on top.

There was one moment in his bout with Moon when the title seemed a long way off. That was when he was lying on the floor in the first round after the Chicago boy had whipped across a right to the jaw.

Just Goes on Fighting

"The first thing I knew the referee was counting three. By the count of five I had my bearings and was on my feet. Right away my head was as clear as it was when I first went into the ring. My knees weren't the least bit shaky, either. So I just went on fighting as though nothing had happened."

That's what Vic has been doing all through his brief career. When he gets a setback, he just goes on fighting as though nothing had happened. In the first bout of his career he took a bad beating, but he had gone into that engagement on a couple of days' notice with no training at all. So he forgot his defeat and trained carefully thereafter. Now he holds one of the greatest prizes in amateur boxing.

Makes Wearing Apparel.

Saccoia, who is 19 years old, is a WPA worker in Detroit. He is kept busy making wearing apparel, sometimes cutting material and sometimes running sewing machines. He has lived in Detroit all his life. He's of Italian parentage.

Hawks Beaten by Wings, 3-2, in Final Game

Detroit, Mich., March 19.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings clinched fifth position in the National Hocky league by defeating the last place Chicago Blackhawks, 3 to 2, tonight in the final regularly scheduled game of the season for both teams.

Herbie Lewis scored the winning goal for Detroit late in the final period while Chicago was short handed. Gus Giesebrecht and Don Grosso, 23 year old Kirkland Lake, Ont., youth who was playing his first professional game, received assists.

Howe Scores For Wings.

Detroit went ahead in the first period when Syd Howe took a double relay from Charley Conacher and Marty Barry and beat Goalie Mike Karakas. Chicago tied the score late in the period as Earl Robinson sifted through the Detroit defense, received a pass from Charley Mason and counted from six feet.

In the second period Grosso got his first major league goal during a flurry in front of the Chicago net. Again Conacher and Barry received assists. Less than a minute later Shill scored Chicago's last goal of the year, taking Mason's pass just inside the blue line and skating to within 10 feet before shooting. Earl Robinson also received an assist.

End of Disastrous Season.

For the Blackhawks the game marked the end of a disastrous season that saw them miss the playoffs after winning the Stanley cup a year ago. Lineups:

SHUTE-STARK RALLY TO WIN PRO-AMATEUR

St. Augustine, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Denny Shute and his towering amateur partner, Bill Stark, won the national amateur-professional best ball golf tournament today, defeating Professional Marvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich., and Amateur Chick Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., 5 and 4, in the thirty-six hole final.

Two down after the first eighteen, Shute and Stark took complete command this afternoon. Shute, particularly, was in brilliant form and he more than made amends to Stark for carrying most of the burden during the morning round.

Stahl-Harbert Crack.

The strain finally caught up with Stahl and Harbert, who had won the medal and eliminated highly regarded teams in their progress through the tougher half of the draw.

Shute, West Newton, Mass., professional and former P. G. A. and British open champion, had trouble getting started, but Stark, former University of Florida football star who now lives in Jacksonville, Fla., managed to keep his side in the running despite a seven under par 65 by Stahl and Harbert.

Shute quickly erased his team's two hole deficit as the afternoon round began, sinking a twenty foot putt for a birdie on the 19th and getting down a forty footer on the 20th.

The Rout Sets In.

Shute and Stark went one up on the 24th, and took the 25th by running down a twelve foot putt for a birdie. Shute birdied the 28th to give them a three up lead, which grew to four up as Shute laid his second shot five feet from the pin to win on the 30th. Stark closed out the match on the 32d with a birdie.

The victory was worth $1,000 to Shute and Stark was given a trophy. Stahl collected $500. The cards:

GLEESON HITS HOMER IN EIGHTH TO BREAK TIE

Three Straight for Champions.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 19.—The Cubs today came from behind to whip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 5, thus keeping their victory string intact in three major league exhibitions. The conquering margin was supplied in the eighth by Jim Gleeson's home run off Bill Swift with Steve Mesner on base.

Gene Lillard pitched the first five innings and allowed only four hits. Unfortunately the total included a double by Arky Vaughan and home runs by Ray Mueller and Johnny Rizzo. When Gene finished his assignment the Cubs were losing, 4 to 2.

The score became 5 to 2 for the Pirates when Ray Harrell's wildness led to a Pirate run in the former Cardinal's one inning of work, the sixth.

In the seventh Bill Swift's wildness—he walked three—and a two base error by Fern Bell, gave the Cubs three runs and a tie. Then came the Mesner-Gleeson act at the start of the eighth.

Carnett Finishes Up.

Ed Carnett was the third and winning Cub pitcher. He loaded the bases in the ninth and threw three wide ones to John Juelich before steadying and making Juelich bounce to Phil Cavarretta for the final out.

The Cubs, having beaten the White Sox, 10 to 2, and the Pirates, 9 to 6, and 7 to 5, in successive days, tomorrow will try their hands against the Los Angeles Angels in the latter's first 1939 appearance in their home park. And Manager Hartnett will seek to make it interesting for the minor leaguers. He will send forth Bill Lee and Clay Bryant.

Neither end of the first inning today was very inspiring to the Cubs. In their half the Chicagoans loaded the bases with none out on singles by Stan Hack and Billy Herman and a pass to Augie Galan. Then Hank Leiber flied to Lloyd Waner and Joe Marty fanned. Cavarretta walked forcing in Hack. Gus Mancuso flied to Waner. In the Pirate half, Waner flied to Marty and Heinie Manush struck out. A pass to Rizzo, a double by Arky Vaughan, a pass to Gus Suhr and a single by Pep Young netted the Pirates two runs and put the Cubs behind for the first time in three exhibition games.

Mueller Busts One.

Mueller knocked the ball over the left field wall to increase the Pirate lead in the second after which the Cubs negotiated a run in the third. Cy Blanton walked Herman and struck out Galan. Leiber lined a double to left, scoring Herman.

Rizzo led off the Pirate third with his homer, over the wall in deep left center, and thereafter it was a scoreless game until just after Harrell took over the pitching job at the start of the Pirate sixth. Harrell walked Suhr on four pitches and also passed Young. Suhr went to third on Lee Handley's fly to Leiber. Maurice Van Robays batted for Mueller and lined a sacrifice fly to Galan. Hack took Galan's relay and appeared to have a chance to head off Suhr at the plate till Bob Garbark wandered away from his station. Hack's throw went to the boxes. Harrell retrieved the throw and doubled Young trying to reach second.

Cubs Tie Score.

The Cubs tied the score in the seventh, the first inning pitched by Bill Swift. Hack and Herman walked and paused while Galan popped to Juelich. Leiber walked, loading the bases, after which Rip Collins batted for Harrell and sent a fly to Bell. Bell dropped the ball, Hack and Herman scoring, Leiber reaching third, and Collins second. Leiber scored the tying run on Cavarretta's bouncer to Suhr. Mesner opened the eighth with a single off Swift, whereupon Gleeson knocked a homer into the right field stands. Herman and Leiber wasted singles later in the inning.

FRANKLIN FACES SAVOLDI; SEEKS EIGHTH KNOCKOUT

Bout Headlines Marigold Card Tonight.

Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, will make his thirteenth professional appearance in a ten round bout with Lee Savoldi of St. Paul in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

The Cleveland colored lad is seeking his eighth knockout.

Since his Golden Gloves days Franklin has been recognized as a terrific hitter with his right hand. Inability to solve the offense caused his defeat by Paul Hartnek of Omaha for the Golden Gloves title in his division three years ago. This same weakness has delayed big Lem's rise in the professional field.

When Savoldi suffered a defeat at the hands of Tom Kenneally in White City Jan. 27 he showed he can be hit and any opponent Franklin can hit faces the danger of being knocked out.

Savoldi avenged the Kenneally setback in St. Paul March 1 by scoring a technical knockout when Tom was unable to come out for the tenth round. The achievement gave Lee national recognition as Kenneally upset Tony Musto before Musto conquered Henry Wacker in the Coliseum on March 2.

Tommy Pallatin vs. Tony Motisi, 146 [6].
George Nyberg vs. Gene O'Leary, 130 [4].
Fernie Bacca vs. Leo Ranieri, 147 [4].
Tim Brawner vs. Jack Pumphrey, heavyweights [4].

Johnny Winter, Maywood middleweight, will meet Henry Refomant of South Chicago in an amateur contest this evening in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. F. M.

N. U. TO PRESENT BASKETBALL IN ORIGINAL FORM

Basketball as played under the original rules with nine players on a team and peach baskets as goals will be demonstrated in a preliminary game to the final of the National Intercollegiate Athletic association tournament to be held in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern university, next Monday night.

Two picked squads of Northwestern players already have begun drills, using the first rules as prepared by Dr. James Naismith, who originated the game at the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. college in the early '90s. Dr. Naismith, now on the faculty at the University of Kansas, invented the game to provide an indoor sport for a class of eighteen students, which is the reason why the first teams had nine players.

In the early days peach baskets were nailed to posts at each end of the court and attendants knocked the ball out after each goal. It wasn't until several years later that the bottoms were removed from the baskets. Soccer balls were used at first.

The championship game will be played between Ohio State, winner of the eastern division tournament, and the winner of the western division which will be decided tonight and tomorrow night in San Francisco.

3 North Side Quintets Win C. Y. O. Titles

The north side won the championship in the ninth annual C. Y. O. basketball tournament yesterday when Immaculate Conception of North Park triumphed in the heavyweight and girls' division finals and St. Sylvester was victorious in the lightweight division.

In the heavyweight game the lead changed hands three times in the last three minutes before Immaculate Conception won, 34 to 32. St. Anthony led, 32 to 30, with one minute to play. Everett Wemlinger scored from midcourt to tie the count. With 10 seconds left, Walsh of Immaculate, the high point man of the game with 12 points, dropped in a one hand shot.

St. Sylvester defeated St. Laurence, 25 to 23, for the lightweight title. After leading all the way St. Sylvester was hard pressed to stave off a St. Laurence rally in the closing seconds.

Immaculate Conception's girl team—one of the strongest ever seen in the C. Y. O. tournament—had little trouble beating Holy Cross of 45th street, 29 to 6. Margaret Gershak, with eight field goals, led the scoring.

Silver Salmon May Be Just a Rainbow Trout

BY BOB BECKER.

Some of the commercial fisherman call them "silver salmon." Rod and line anglers hear them called "steelhead salmon," but there's more than a sporting chance that they're just plain rainbows that have been streamlined by living in Lake Michigan. Whatever this fish may be that is swimming around the southern end of Lake Michigan, it has made its spring appearance in fairly shallow water.

Seven Fish Caught.

We contacted a group of professional fishermen near Miller City, Ind., a few days ago regarding the "silver salmon" or steelheads and they reported that they had caught seven of them in their nets. Following this small catch the fishing business went into a decline due to high winds. If the weather is more favorable this week the boys hope to net more of these Lake Michigan game fish which are excellent eating.

One of the commercial fisherman says that these spring fish at the southern end of the lake are silver salmon and there is no argument about it. But we won't be convinced about their correct name and identification until Carl Hubbs, curator of fish in the Museum of Zoölogy at Ann Arbor, Michigan, has had a look at one of them. Hubbs is an acknowledged authority on our fresh water species of fish. So we are going to see if Hubbs can't give these salmon or steelheads a good look before the spring run is over. The commercial fishermen report that anglers have had no luck trying to hook the three and four pounders when they come into shallow water at this time of the year. The commercial fishermen catch them in floating nets.

Must Name Them.

If the fish in question proves to be a so-called steelhead then fishermen will have to decide whether they want to call them steelheads or rainbows. According to Hubbs who has spent years studying the rainbows around Great Lakes and elsewhere in American fishing waters, the steelhead and the rainbow are the same species. When a rainbow goes to sea [as it does some places in the west or into the Great Lakes] it grows very fast and large, becomes streamlined and small headed, and takes on a brilliant silver color which almost hides the black spots. These same trout, however, lose these colors and get rainbow tints when they enter streams to spawn. Fish reared in hatcheries from "steelhead trout" are ordinary rainbows.

GALENTO RETAINS RATING AS N. B. A. NO. 1 CHALLENGER

Pastor Placed Second in Annual Rankings.

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—Tony Galento retained his National Boxing association ranking as the No. 1 heavyweight title challenger today, but by a split decision.

The quarterly selections of the rating committee noted that Committeeman Joe Triner of Illinois voted to leave vacant the No. 1 position which the N. B. A. first awarded to the Jersey heavyweight a year ago.

The committee also made it clear that it did not regard Galento as a very serious threat to Champion Joe Louis, but only as the top man of an unimpressive group of challengers.

Bob Pastor, whose suspension has been lifted since the last previous ranking, was placed second. Others in the first ten in the order of their ranking were Lou Nova, Max Baer, Red Burman, Maurice Strickland, Nathan Mann, Roscoe Toles, Johnny Paycheck, and Tony Musto.

The rankings of other than heavyweights were:

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS—John Henry Lewis, champion; Melio Bettina, Dave Clark, Billy Conn, Ron Richards, Gus Lesnevich, Len Harvey, Jock McAvoy, Tiger Terry Warrington, Eddie Wenstob, Joe Wagner.

New Orleans, La., March 19.—(AP)—Bob Feller, making his first start of the year, yielded one hit in three innings today as the Indians defeated the Athletics, 5 to 0.

Gene Thompson finished the game and allowed the Bees only one hit, while the Reds were collecting 12 hits off Milburn Shoffner and Rookie Tom Earley.

Bill Werber played his first game in a Red uniform since coming from the Athletics of the American league. Although he went hitless in four attempts, Manager Bill McKechnie commented after the game:

"As to his arm, I'm willing to go out on a limb right now and say it is as good as any in our league."

Lakeland, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—A triple by Buddy Myer, followed by Cecil Travis' single in the 13th inning today enabled the Senators to defeat the Tigers, 10 to 9.

Cletus Poffenberger, one of four Detroit pitchers to work, was on the hill when the Senators won the game. Washington collected 19 hits as compared to Detroit's 15. It was the third straight loss for Detroit.

BROWNS, 2; PHILLIES, 1.

San Antonio, Tex., March 19.—(AP)—Two veteran pitchers made excellent showings today as the Browns beat the Phillies, 2 to 1, for the sixth time this year. GIANTS WIN, 12 TO 5.

Baton Rouge, La., March 19.—(AP)—The score of the Giants' 12 to 5 conquest of their Jersey City farmhands doesn't show it, but the outstanding performance of the day was by a pitcher.

Ken O'Dea and Billy Jurges contributed home runs inside the park. Although the Giants collected 14 hits, including six for extra bases, it was their fifth exhibition game without defeat.

Each team got ten hits and the score was tied from time to time, but Tuck Stainback's single with the bases loaded in the eighth won the game.

Boston's hits were longer and the Sox got them in every inning up until the eighth, but Hugh Casey and Vito Tamulis bore down in the pinches.

Bill Dickey made his first appearance behind the plate and led the world champions with four hits, a performance equaled by Joe Di Maggio.

The Cardinals made a gallant rebuttal, with Enos Slaughter getting two home runs and Rookie Elvin Adams another, but could not match the concentrated assault of the world champions who scored five runs in the sixth inning.

St. Louis [N.]...101 020 111— 7 7 0

A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM

IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy . . . Leaves Skin Soft

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Everett B. Hallauer
PRESIDENT

P. S. -Try Glider at our Expense: Send your name and address on a penny post card, for a generous FREE tube of Glider "No-Brush" Cream. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CT-28, Glastonbury, Conn.

SMITTY—THE AWFUL TRUTH

U. S. AIR BOARD HUNTS CAUSE OF AIRLINER CRASH

Broken Engine Mounting Studied Carefully.

Alder, Wash., March 19.—(AP)—Two federal investigators began an inch-by-inch check of the wreck of the Boeing stratoliner today to learn, if possible, whether breaking of a motor mount caused the crash that killed 10 persons here yesterday.

Frank Caldwell, chief of the Civil Aeronautics authority's inspection service, and Phil C. Salzman, air safety investigator, hurried to the wreck scene after flying from Chicago and began working through the twisted remains of the $500,000 four-motored passenger liner.

Motor Buried in Ground.

No responsible officer of the Boeing company or the government agency would say definitly a broken motor mounting might have caused the plane, designed to fly in the substratosphere, to plunge 10,000 feet into a wooded ravine near here, but all investigators paid special attention to the one motor which had fallen clear of the plane, apparently during a power dive test, and lay buried two feet in the ground.

Two Dutch aviation authorities, A. G. von Baumhauer of Amsterdam, aeronautics engineer for The Netherlands government, and Peter Guilonard, assistant general manager of the Royal Dutch airlines, died in the wreckage, along with half a dozen leading American aviation experts.

Boeing Experts Killed.

Other victims were Julius Barr, pilot, formerly personal pilot to Mme. Chiang Kai-shek in China; Harlan Hull, 32 years old, Kansas City, Mo., chief test pilot for Transcontinental and Western Airlines; Earl A. Ferguson, 31, and William Doyle, 27, both of Seattle, Boeing test pilots; John Kylstra, Boeing chief engineer; Ralph L. Cram, 33, Seattle, Boeing aerodynamics expert; Benjamin J. Pearson, 32, assistant Boeing sales manager, and Harry T. West Jr., 36, Boeing foreman.

Cram's wife, expecting the birth of a child, collapsed when she was informed of his death and was taken to a hospital.

For several weeks the thirty-three passenger plane had been tested at relatively low altitudes and had made one previous flight after the sealing of its cabin—an innovation designed to maintain sea level air pressure for its occupants while flying in the substratosphere, 20,000 feet or more above the earth.

Donald Paul Wosikowski, 15 years old, 2149 North Kilbourn avenue, a high school student who was bicycling home from church, was injured seriously yesterday in a freak accident involving two automobiles.

The cars collided at Augusta boulevard and Cicero avenue. They were driven by Otto Bramman, 48, of 1117 North Dearborn street, a salesman, and Earl Scala, 18, of 3316 Potomac avenue. Bramman's machine then careened into Donald's bicycle and overturned, pinning the boy beneath it. Donald was taken to St. Anne's hospital.

NEGROES' HEALTH WEEK TRIBUTE TO B. T. WASHINGTON

Atlanta, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Not long before his death in 1915, Booker Taliaferro Washington won one of his many victories for America's Negroes when a national Negro health week was inaugurated.

This move was less spectacular than many of his accomplishments and the famous colored educator was not to live to see many of its fruits.

But now, twenty-five years later, Negro health week is regarded as one of the finest of memorials to the slavery-born Washington, and the silver anniversary of its observance will be made a tribute to him.

The first week of April has been set aside as the 1939 Negro health week because on April 5, 1858, Washington was born at Hale's Ford, Va.

Federal, state, county, and city health departments, and various voluntary health and civic groups will join in the observance which has been worked out in detail by the United States public health service.

ANTI-MARRIAGE PLAN OF ARMY RUNS INTO SNAG

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—An army proposal to forbid young officers to marry during their first three years of service has bumped into opposition in congress, where many a member has campaigned with ringing endorsements of home and motherhood.

The army's proposal is contained in a bill, now pending in the house military committee, which would put West Point graduates on probation for three years. It doesn't mention marriage, but committee members said war department officials had testified that a regulation forbidding marriages during the probation period was planned. Influential house members predicted the measure would not be approved.

The navy imposes a probationary period on its fledgling officers, but some house military committee members expressed belief the protracted sea duty required of naval officers justified the rule against marriages.

TRUCKING HALTS IN RHODE ISLAND AS 2,500 STRIKE

Providence, R. I., March 20 [Monday].—(AP)—Trucking came to a virtual halt in Rhode Island early today after 2,500 of the state's 3,000 truck drivers ratified a strike call and employers decided to fight. Twenty pickets took positions at the state line in Pawtucket at midnight to stop trucks from Massachusetts.

Union headquarters announced that "everything on wheels," with the exception of perishables, beer, and hospital supplies, would be turned back at the state line unless the trucks belonged to companies which met union demands. The beer trucks reportedly operate under a separate agreement.

Making Rhode Island a testing ground for a three-state wage controversy, the strike was ratified here yesterday by drivers, after conferences in Boston failed to break the deadlock.

GOV. FITZGERALD IS BURIED WITH MILITARY HONORS

Grand Ledge, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald was buried today in picturesque Oakwood cemetery on a hillside across Grand river from this village which had been his home since birth.

With a 19 gun salute and the sounding of taps, the state of Michigan said its farewell to the governor in the presence of several thousand of his constituents and friends. Victim of a heart attack Thursday night, the executive had served only 11 weeks of his second term in office after the first comeback victory by a governor in the state's history.

In his funeral sermon the Rev. Dr. E. W. Bishop, Lansing pastor, eulogized the governor as a typical American.

Luren D. Dickinson, 80 years old, the lieutenant governor who has been sworn in as Fitzgerald's successor, and who has been in frail health, was brought here for the funeral in a state police car from his Eaton county farm a dozen miles away.

500 IMPERILED IN THEATER BLAST; ONLY TWO HURT

Nearly 500 men, women, and children were imperiled last night when a boiler exploded in the Wilton theater in Wilmington, Will county, about nineteen miles south of Joliet. Two women were slightly hurt.

The theater was filled when the explosion occurred. It tore a large hole out of the stage, loosened plaster, and scattered débris throughout the house. In spite of the terrific blast the spectators remained calm. There was no rush for the exits and they filed out in orderly fashion.

Those injured were Mrs. Harold Dunterman, 24 years old, and Miss Rose Curl, 18, both of Elwood, who were cut by débris. They were given first aid and taken home. Fire officials said the explosion probably was caused by a defective steam trap. They estimated the damage at between $3,500 and $4,000. There was no fire following the blast.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by Frank Ridgway

Farmers Rap AAA Costs

March 19, 1939.

FARMERS are objecting to the increasing costs each must pay for county administrative work in the federal Agricultural Adjustment administration's crop control program. In Illinois alone the cost of administering the 1938 AAA program increased to $1,552,284 in the state's 102 counties.

Last year's administrative costs exceeded those of 1937 by $235,271, and those of 1936 by $450,604. The 1938 expenses cover the costs of the general AAA plan, corn sealing, crop insurance, and other minor items in Illinois. They do not include the expenses in the AAA state office or Illinois' share of the national AAA office costs at Washington.

Exceed 23 Millions in U. S.

County administrative expenses of the AAA for the whole country exceeded 23 million dollars for 1936, and 20 million dollars for 1937. The total national expenses for 1938 will not be known until after the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

The administrative costs in the counties are taken out of the individual farmer's check paid by the government for coöperating on the AAA crop control program. Farmers know that out of their total pay for 1938 compliance, 10 per cent is being deducted to meet expenses in the counties. The percentage of the amount deducted varies with the different counties of the various states. In Illinois the limit was fixed at 10 per cent last year.

The administrative cost of operating the AAA program, including expenses in the counties, states, and the national office at Washington, totaled 40 million dollars for 1936 and in excess of 38 million for 1937. National figures for 1938 will not be known until the end of the fiscal year in midsummer. Payments and expenses are to go much higher for 1939.

Plan Proves Confusing.

It is generally known among farmers that in many cases individual land owners and operators are able to collect government AAA payments without changing their planting plans. Many run their farms in the usual way regardless of the government's control plan. Then at the proper time they go to government agents in the counties and townships and ask how much they will be able to collect. In such cases the government pays people for doing what they were going to do anyway.

Even farmers who hope the AAA plan will do something more than pay them cash out of the federal treasury are puzzled over some of the inconsistencies in the plan. For example, they are paid to cut down their production but some are paid without changing their cropping plans materially. Then they are paid for another phase of the plan that calls for the addition of lime, phosphates, and other fertilizers which increase production.

SLOAN ASSERTS REVIVAL HINGES ON U. S. POLICY

Cites Fundamentals for Expansion.

The government's attitude toward business will be the principal factor in determining whether current improvement materializes into a broad recovery movement, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, declared yesterday.

"There is no doubt that the fundamentals of a broad and sound expansion exist in abundance today," he said in his annual message to stockholders. But recovery, he added, is dependent importantly on "the attitude of mind of the constructive forces of the country as to the conditions under which industry is to operate and particularly the attitude of the government as affecting the national economy."

Income Tax Takes Bonuses.

He presented a study of the compensation of the corporation's three highest paid executives from 1930 through 1937 to show that Uncle Sam stands to get the equivalent of their bonuses by way of income taxes.

The executives were not named in the exhibit, although Sloan commented that he was one of them, and noted he had been eliminated from further participation in the bonus at the beginning of 1937. In quarters familiar with the corporation's affairs it was assumed the other two were William S. Knudsen, president, and Donaldson Brown, vice chairman.

The top man, presumably Sloan, over the eight year period was credited with an annual average compensation of $297,995. Allowance for federal income taxes at current rates would cut this to $133,337.

Sloan's Salary Varies.

Sloan's compensation, counting bonus, ranged from $561,161 down to $112,500 in lean years, when earnings were too small for bonuses and salaries were reduced. The bonus fund amounts to 10 per cent of the annual profit after deducting 7 per cent on capital employed.

Pay of the second man ranged from $507,450 to $76,666, an average of $279,940. The federal tax allowance cut this to $128,675. The third executive's remuneration ranged from $353,655 to $90,000 for an average of $200,125, and after the tax allowance was reduced to $103,283.

Net earnings in 1938 available for dividends amounted to $102,190,007, according to the report. A preliminary statement had placed the total at $102,320,000, against actual 1937 net income of $196,436,598. Last year's earnings equaled $2.17 a share on common stock, against $4.38 in 1937.

Tax Bill Is $73,812,000.

The corporation's total tax bill declined to $73,812,000 in 1938, from $104,959,000 in 1937, chiefly because of smaller earnings and consequently smaller profits taxes.

"The tax bill definitly ascertainable was equivalent to 72.2 per cent of the reported earnings in 1938 as compared with 53.5 per cent in 1937 and 38.2 per cent in 1936," the report said.

Last year's sales aggregated $1,066,973,000, or 33.6 per cent below the 1937 level of $1,606,789,841. However, the report said General Motors accounted for 42.9 per cent of all the new passenger cars and trucks sold to consumers in the United States, against 39 per cent in 1937.

OVER-COUNTER CODE PROPOSAL IS SUBMITTED

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission and the Investment Bankers Conference, Inc., proffered jointly today a code of fair practice for over-the-counter markets.

The proposal for a National Securities association—which would administer the code—was sent to about 1,600 security dealers for their comment and criticism.

Among the fair practice rules suggested were prohibitions against unreasonable profits, manipulation, and improper pledging or lending of a customer's securities.

Oil Problem's Solution Near, Says Cardenas

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas announced today that the oil expropriation problem was "reaching a definite solution through a plan of coöperation" offered by the companies affected.

President Cardenas of Mexico.

The president spoke to a crowd of 35,000 to 40,000 persons gathered in the plaza of the presidential palace in a demonstration celebrating the expropriation action taken a year ago yesterday.

His comment regarding settlement possibilities was interpreted as meaning that Mexico was ready for an agreement if control and management remained with the government.

Seventeen American and British oil properties, valued by their owners at $400,000,000, were expropriated last year. Donald R. Richberg, counsel for the companies, has been negotiating here over the problem.

Calls for Fresh Funds.

Cardenas said the plan offered by the companies "would include fresh investments in cash for the development of a plan of coöperation under which the government will, however, have to maintain control of the industry."

Richberg was understood to have offered a company management plan for a long period in which the companies would gain sufficient earnings to liquidate past investments and then hand over the properties to Mexico.

Cardenas in a statement last night said the government "accepts discussion of the proceeding that Mr. Richberg proposes, and that fundamentally consists in that, once each of the parties establishes the quantity of respective investment, the percentages of income that each should receive shall be calculated."

No Agreement Accepted.

However, Richberg emphasized today that no agreement had been accepted yet by either side and that there would be nothing official until an announcement by both the companies and the government.

A final conference in the current negotiations will be held by Richberg and the president on Wednesday, after which the American attorney planned to go to Washington. He was expected to return late in April to continue the talks.

Cardenas told the great throng the government was "about to complete valuation of the properties expropriated and the valuation will be announced in a few days."

RISE IN STEEL ORDERS IS LESS THAN EXPECTED

Buyer demand for steel this month has not improved as rapidly as the industry expected, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review. The revival in orders which usually comes in March has not yet materialized, Steel added.

A favorable sign was noted, however, in increased purchases by railroads, the journal said. It observed that acceleration of automobile assemblies also foreshadowed a better market for steel.

Ingot operations last week, the journal said, were unchanged for the nation at 56.5 per cent of capacity.

Scrap markets were steady but inactive last week. The magazine's composite price for scrap was unchanged at $14.96 per ton for the third week.

AMERICAN SHARE OF STEEL OUTPUT AT 54 YEAR LOW

America's proportionate share of world steel production in 1938 was the smallest in fifty-four years, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. The 1938 share was slightly more than one-fourth, compared with two-fifths in 1937 and nearly half of world output in 1929.

The nation produced 28,250,000 gross tons of ingots and castings in 1938, or 27 per cent of the world total of 105,850,000 tons, the institute said.

FINDS OIL INDUSTRY PAYS TENTH OF ALL TAXES LEVIED IN U. S.

More than one out of every ten tax dollars collected in the United States in 1938 came from levies on petroleum and its products, the Skelly Oil company told stockholders yesterday in its annual report.

"The 1938 petroleum tax bill paid by the industry and its customers exceeded $1,250,000,000 for the second consecutive year," the report said. "In no recent year has the industry earned as much as it and its customers have paid to the tax collector."

Corporation earnings statements issued yesterday follow:

Investors' Guide

Monday, March 20, 1939.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SEVEN UP.

Investors' Guide: Is it possible to buy stock in the Seven-Up company, the soft drink maker? I like to buy stock in companies whose products I use. They tell me that Seven-Up's headquarters are in St. Louis, and I notice that there is also a Seven-Up Company of Texas. Are the two concerns related? Is any information on Seven-Up sales and profits available?—Mrs. M. H.

Answer: The Seven-Up Company of St. Louis, which has control of manufacture of Seven-Up, is a closely held company and its stock is not available to the public.

Its policy, however, is to grant franchises to firms in various territories to make, bottle, and sell Seven-Up. The largest firm with such a franchise is the Seven-Up Bottling Company of St. Louis. The Texas company that you probably have in mind is the 7-Up Texas corporation, which also operates under a franchise from the Seven-Up company.

You may buy stock in the Seven-Up Bottling Company of St. Louis. It has issued 9,475 5½ per cent preferred shares and 102,925 common shares. Dividends are being paid regularly on the preferred and $1.25 a share was paid on the common last year.

Last year's net income increased to $188,000 and was equal to $1.76 a common share. Net income in 1937 was $145,000.

CUDAHY STOCK RESTRICTIONS.

Investors' Guide: Is there some restriction on the dividends that Cudahy Packing may pay on its common stock? I am told that the surplus must equal a certain sum before dividends are permitted. What is the rule, and what is the company's surplus?—M. T.

Answer: Common dividends are restricted by the Cudahy bond indenture. It says that no common dividend may be paid if the earned surplus is less than $5,000,000 or if the dividend payment would reduce the surplus to less than $5,000,000.

Cudahy's profit and loss surplus on Oct. 29, 1938, was $2,233,379.

MUFFLERS, TOO.

Investors' Guide: Does the Michigan Bumper corporation make anything besides bumpers?—I. H. D.

Answer: Yes, its other chief product is automobile mufflers. It also makes some dies and castings and novelties.

Drastic Rail Reform Is Aim of Senate Bill

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—Legislation proposing a drastic revision of reorganization procedure for financially distressed railroad was drafted today by Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Senator Truman [D., Mo.] of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Their measure, which they will introduce tomorrow, provides for establishment of a "railroad reorganization court" and revamping of present laws to make it easier for railroads in financial distress to revise their capital structures.

Companies now in receivership or bankruptcy have obligations of more than $5,500,000,000, operate about one-third of the nation's railway mileage and employ 250,000 workers.

I. C. C. Would Fix Standards.

The proposed three-judge court would take over supervision of all railroad reorganizations, but the interstate commerce commission would fix standards for all railroad reorganizations.

Requests for reorganization would be filed with both the new court and the I. C. C. The I. C. C. would be asked to determine the earnings of the road, the maximum safe capitalization, and the maximum fixed charges it could meet.

Provision for the special court, the senators said, resulted from suggestions by members of the interstate commerce commission and an advisory committee appointed by President Roosevelt.

Seek to Speed Up Process.

Wheeler and Truman said the bill is divided roughly into these three parts:

"Provisions designed to insure the soundness of the financial structures that will emerge from the reorganization process.

"Provisions that will expedite and facilitate the reorganization procedure itself.

To reduce capitalization of financially distressed railroads the new court could fix "a fair upset price" on any securities or properties and permit a sale at public auction.

38 MILLION U. S. TRADE IN CZECH GOODS PERILED

Blacklist on Nazis Worries Importers.

Will Germany's latest conquest bring an end to the United States' $38,000,000 a year import business with Czecho-Slovakia?

Worried importers and dealers in Czecho-Slovakian glassware, gloves, textiles, artificial jewelry, and other craft products are awaiting an answer to this question.

The dilemma was intensified by the announcement Saturday of the United States treasury department that Germany is now on America's trade blacklist. Effective April 23, German goods brought to America will be subject to a 25 per cent penalty because they are subsidized by the German government.

Meanwhile it appeared that German control of the great Bata shoe factory in what was Czecho-Slovakia would eliminate or hamper it as a competitor of the New England shoe manufacturers.

Predicts Gain in Bay State.

Francis B. Masterson, president of the National Association of Shoe Wholesalers, yesterday predicted in Boston that Bata would be forced out as a competitor in this country. He estimated that Massachusetts shoe production will increase between 6 and 12 per cent.

American dealers in Czech goods were unable to determine whether tarif blacklisting would apply to their imports, which must now come from a part of the pan-German empire.

John A. Cervenka, city purchasing agent and chairman of the American-Czecho-Slovakian National Alliance and National council, pointed out that the state department refuses to recognize the Nazi seizure of Czecho-Slovakia. He admitted, however, that Germany will control all of the dead republic's trade.

Focal point of the import confusion is the Czecho-Slovakian Import institute, established by the Czech government in the Merchandise Mart last fall to stimulate trade, following the completion a year ago of an American - Czech reciprocal trade agreement.

Await Instruction from Prague.

Nicholas Mara, trade commissioner of the institute, will return to Chicago this week from San Francisco. He set up a Czecho-Slovakian exhibit at the San Francisco fair. It has now lost its official standing, but will be continued.

In his absence, Mrs. Ludmila Fay, secretary of the institute, said: "We have received no instructions from Prague and will continue to remain open."

"Under the reciprocal trade treaty Czecho-Slovakia enjoyed certain tarif benefits, which will be lost if trade penalties against Germany are applied to Czecho-Slovakian goods, Mrs. Fay said.

Wealth in U. S. Widely Spread Among Masses, Survey Shows

Contrary to the views of many persons, wealth of the United States is not concentrated in the hands of a few individuals, but is widely diffused among the masses, according to an economic study made public yesterday by the University of Notre Dame.

The Rev. Edward Keller, director of the university's bureau of economic research, in issuing the report took issue with economists who base estimates of wealth concentration on probated estates, wealth of corporations, and similar sources.

Excludes Securities.

He used 120 pages of government statistics to illustrate his view that many important goods, such as farm lands, homes, radios, and automobiles, are impossible of concentration. He excluded money and securities as being evidences of ownership and not physical assets.

Father Keller set the value of the nation's physical assets at 410 billion dollars, as of 1930, the last year for which complete data are available. Of this total he placed 54 per cent in the classification which he termed "comfort goods," such as automobiles, homes, and radios.

10 Per Cent as "Tools."

An additional 10 per cent was used as "tools of production" by farmers and 4 per cent was owned by professional and business men for "production." Although title to the remaining 32 per cent was vested in corporations, Father Keller estimated at least a third could not represent concentration since it was distributed among the people through ownership of securities, bank deposits, and life insurance.

Value of the nation's physical assets was placed at $2,740 per person. There was an advance of nearly 100 billion dollars in the total between 1922 and 1930, he said.

"How I Got a Loan of $100 without embarrassment
or delay."
"I needed $100 in a hurry. I dreaded to ask friends for a favor. And I had no security for getting a loan at a bank. What was I to do? Fortunately I heard about Household Finance and so went to a nearby office. The manager was courteous and friendly. He merely asked me a few simple questions. The next day I got the money with 20 months to repay. Only my wife and I signed the papers. I was delighted to get a loan so simply and promptly."

Whether you are married or single, if you need a loan of $20 to $300 the manager of the Household office near you will be glad to discuss your problem with you in complete privacy and without obligation. Why not phone or visit him today?

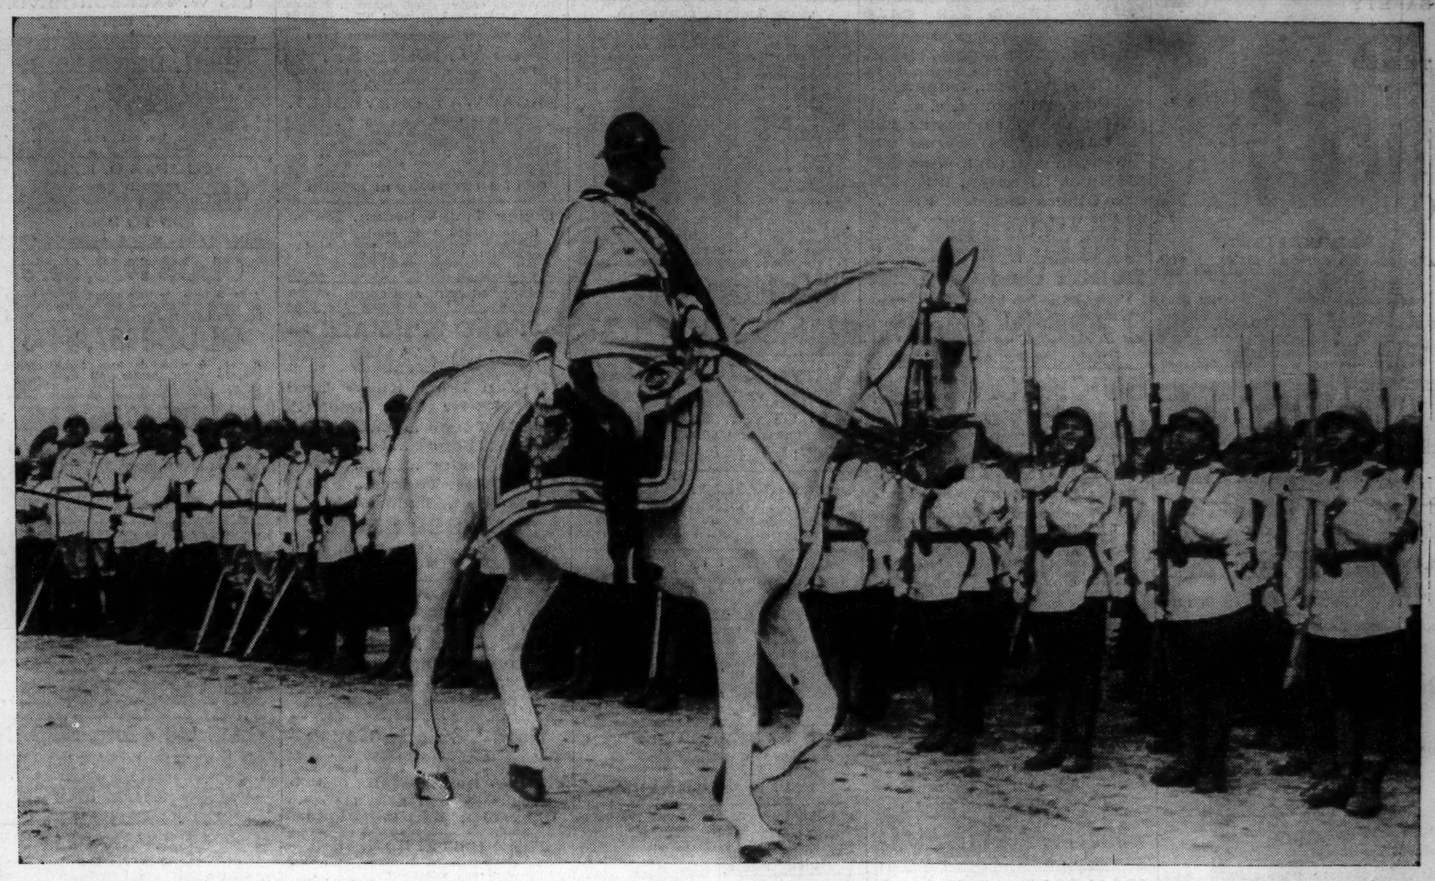
Rumania Calls 500,000 Troops in War Crisis—Guard Frontiers of Balkan Oil and Wheat Kingdom

The beginnings of the German empire. The ruled area is Prussia. White areas are states added up to 1871. Alsace-Lorraine was taken from France and stayed with Germany until the end of the world war. (Story on page 1.)



King Carol of Rumania as he recently reviewed a select troop of his soldiers who are trained to advance at double time. More than 500,000 Rumanians, called from a dozen classes of the army reserves, were guarding the frontiers of the Balkan kingdom last night against the threat of Germany. [Associated Press Wirephoto.] (Story on page 1.)

Germany and Austria-Hungary in 1914. These were the Central Powers, which, with Turkey and Bulgaria, waged war against most of the other large nations of the world for four years. (Story on page 1.)
